INTERIM FINDINGS ON THE CRIMES COMMITTED BY JAPANESE IMPERIALISTS: "COMFORT WOMEN FOR THE ARMY"

The Committee of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea for the Investigation of Damage Caused by Japanese Imperialists During Their Occupation of Korea

Pyongyang, August 1993

INTERIM FINDINGS ON THE CRIMES COMMITTED BY JAPANESE IMPERIALISTS:

"COMFORT WOMEN FOR THE ARMY"

for managers and otal crisis and	oral cis
	 	,
Korea suffered mest from the part for 41 years from November	1905 to	B 12-1	16 6
	s," abou	200,00	Antika

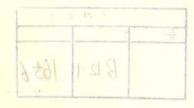

The Committee of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea for the Investigation of
Damage Caused by Japanese Imperialists
During Their Occupation of Korea

The gravity of short a column lies at the fixed that a drig power by

Pyongyang, August 1993

INTERIM FINDINGS ON THE CRIMES COMMITTED BY JAPANESE IMPERIALISTS:

"COMFORT WOMEN FOR THE ARMY"

The Committee of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea for the Investigation of Damage Caused by Japanese Imperialists During Their Occupation of Korea

Pyongyang, August 1993

portant to maintain the international order based on unitual respect, equality, justice and democracy, and prevent the recurrence of the crime.

On Publishing Interim Findings on the Crimes Against the "Comform Women For the Army" committed by the Japanese impenialists with regard to the Acomfort

In the past most of the Asian countries were victims of the Japanese armed invasion and militarism. A great deal of damage was done to manpower and materials and moral civilization in the course of this.

Korea suffered most from the unlawful occupation and rule by Japan for 41 years from November 1905 to August 1945. During this period 6 million Koreans were drafted in the name of commandeering, conscription and "Volunteer Corps," about 200,000 women were drafted as the "comfort women for the army", and one million died.

The fact that Japan took away about 200,000 women from Korea to make them their sex slaves in the name of "comforting the army" by using the government and military authorities was something unprecedented either in modern history or war history.

The gravity of such a crime lies in the fact that a big power by means of armed forces and government authorities, impaired the dignity and honour of a small country and violated the freedom, chastity and lives of women. This meant the wanton violation of the justice and morality of international community and law.

The issue of "comfort women for the army" is a bilateral one to be resolved between the victims and Japan and, at the same time, has now developed into the issue of human rights on international community which is related to the moral civilization of humanity.

If this serious matter is left intact or handled with evasive manner on the ground that many years have passed, there will be a grave consequence that may destroy the justice and morality of international community by strength.

So making exhaustive investigations into this criminal case and resolving the issue of compensation for the damage properly is very important to maintain the international order based on mutual respect, equality, justice and democracy, and prevent the recurrence of the crime.

The Committee of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea for the Investigation of Damage Caused by Japanese Imperialists During Their Occupation of Korea has carried out investigation into the crimes committed by the Japanese imperialists with regard to the "comfort women for the army" and publishes interim findings from a desire to resolve the matter of compensation for the damage in accordance with the international law and morality now that the truth of the case has been cleared up.

The Committee of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea for the Investigation of
Damage Caused by Japanese Imperialists
During Their Occupation of Korea

Korea suffered most from the unlawful occupation and rule by Ja-

Pyongyang, August 1993

redented either in modern history or war history.

The gravity of such a crime lies in the fact that a big power by and honour of a small country and violated the freedom, chastity and lives of women. This meant the wanton violation of the justice and morality of international community and law.

The issue of "comfort women for the army" is a bilateral one to be resolved between the victims and Japan and, at the same time, has now developed into the issue of human rights on international community which is related to the moral civilization of humanity.

If this serious matter is left intact or handled with evasive manner on the ground that many years have passed, there will be a grave consequence that may destroy the justice and morality of international community by strength.

So making exhaustive investigations into this criminal case and resolving the issue of compensation for the damage properly is very im-

CONTENTS

6. The Number of "Comfort Women situry !!

60	THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY O
1	FOR THE ARMY" CASE
22	1. Origination of the "Comfort Women for the Army" Issue
	2. Investigation by the DPRK Government
22 II 25	. TRUTH OF THE CASE OF "COMFORT WOMEN FOR THE ARMY"
	1. Motive and Objectives of "Comfort Women for
26	- Criminal Motive A blund Insumayou
26	75 The "Comfort Women" Case is switzeldOsgainst itumanity.
	2. The Period of Introduction of the "Comfort Women" System is a mind a said a said in the
27	3. Sources and Methods of Recruitment
28	4. Fair Solution for the "Comfort williamoutan Issue
28	Overall Investigation into the Crimes agAd Opening the Results to the Production of the Productio
28	- Punishment on Culprits
29	4. Management and Operation of "Comfort Houses" 1
29	- Forms of Operation and Visitors to "Comfort Houses" 1
39	Size and Location of "Comfort Houses"
	Regulations With Regard to "Comfort Houses"
31	Life in the "Comfort Houses" MATERITY SesuoH 1
0.0	5. Treatment for "Comfort Women" at the End

6. The Number of "Comfort Women"	. 18
7. Living Conditions of "Comfort Women" after the War — Mental and Psychological Damage
Their Occupation Physical Damage . Pattern into the control of the	. 21
INVESTIGATION INTO THE "COMPORT WOMEN"	mid
FOR THE ARMYMICASE SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE SHORT	TE IN
III. OUR VIEW ON "COMFORT WOMEN" AND DEMAND	D . 22
1. The Purpose of the "Comfort Women" Case wa to Pursue the Policy of Eliminating the Korea Nation.
2. Historical Background of the "Comfort Women Case	. 25
3. International Legal Responsibility the Japanes Government Should Assume	se . 26
The "Comfort Women" Case is the Crimes again Humanity.	st . 26
The "Comfort Women" Case is Gross Violation Human Rights, a Crime Still Not Canceled by Inte	г-
3. Sources and Methods of Recruitment	. 27
4. Fair Solution for the "Comfort Women" Issue
Overall Investigation into the Crimes and Opening	ıg
the Results to the Public to t	. 28
- Punishment on Culprits	. 28
Expression of Formal Apology & mamaganaM.	. 29
Forms of Operation anoits analysis 11	. 29
- International Settlement Through the United Nation	ns 30
Regulations With Regard to "Comfort Houses" 12 Medical Checkup
APPENDIX: MATERIALS M prolimo	. 31
1. List of 34 Victims who Bore the Public
Testimonies	. 32

7	Public Testimonies									E.C				3
	Ri Kyong Saeng									5 • 53	•:			3
e 1	Kim Tae II			•		0							•	4
-V	Yun Kyong Ae						:							4
_	Ri Pok Nyo													4
	Jang Su Wol													4
	Jong Ok Sun						a.i							5
	Pak Pok I			ě						٠				5
-	Ri Hyon Suk		•		٠			*		٠				5
	Ro Hyon Hwa						.1		u,					5
d.	Kim Kun Suk			es.e	•	T.		•	100		2			6
_ 0	Kim Yong Sil			arı	2.0								•	6
_	Jong Song Myong					•		•	,	•				6
	Kang Yong Suk				٠			•				S$$1	•	7
_	Pak Pok Sil							٠) (*)		7
-	Choe Sun Hwan				in.	۳.			1	١.				7
_	Hwang Son Ok								3.0					7
-	Ri Son Rim	•								•				7
	Sur L	- Kim Tae II - Yun Kyong Ae - Ri Pok Nyo - Jang Su Wol - Jong Ok Sun - Pak Pok I - Ri Hyon Suk - Ro Hyon Hwa - Kim Kun Suk - Kim Yong Sil - Jong Song Myong - Kang Yong Suk - Pak Pok Sil - Choe Sun Hwan - Hwang Son Ok - Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok Ri Son Rim	Ri Kyong Saeng Kim Tae II Yun Kyong Ae Ri Pok Nyo Jang Su Wol Jong Ok Sun Pak Pok I Ri Hyon Suk Ro Hyon Hwa Kim Kun Suk Kim Yong Sil Jong Song Myong Kang Yong Suk Pak Pok Sil Choe Sun Hwan Hwang Son Ok

- 8

	2. 17 Public Testimonies mimo? To redund add a 3
	- Ri Kyong Saeng
D	- Ri Kyong Saeng - Ri Kyong Saeng Saeng - Ri King Tae II Projence to smelling Considered A Constant II Tolera Constant II Toler
41
7	- Mental and Psychological Lineship
92
110
G.
88	I. The Purpose of the Comfort Women, Case was
H	to Parsue the Policy of Eliminating the Korean
14	a . Marian
Bi 0.7
E	Pak Pok Sil
85	7 3 . laterystional Legal Responsibility null god by arrese
87	- Hwang Son Ok omitseA bloods, tosomozons,
85	T
	- Panishoven as Calles
	Expression of Females Parings
	- International Settiement Electrical Communication

APPENDIX : MATERIALS

L. List of 34 Victims who Bore Textimonies

I. INVESTIGATION INTO THE "COMFORT WOMEN FOR THE ARMY" CASE

and the main culprit have been confirmed recently?

The "Comfort Women for the Army" case means the human rights violation by the government and military authorities of Japan, in which for the execution of war they established the "comfort houses" in the army, drafted women mainly from Korea as well as from the Philippines, China, Taiwan, Indonesia, Malaysia and the Netherlands, 200,000 all told, for sexual services to the Japanese officers and soldiers, and killed most of them before and mainly during the 15-year war period (1931-1945).

1. Origination of the "Comfort Women for the Army" Issue

The issue of "comfort women is to investigate the criminal case and compensate the damage caused by it. This case has been buried in oblivion until recent years because the Japanese Government obliterated many of proofs, and established a rigid censorship after the war, or because the survived victims were too shy to talk about their past when they were ruined for life as women.

On January 10, 1992, some official documents concerning "comfort women" were discovered in the archives of the Japanese "Defence Agency". It was confirmed by these documents that the main culprit of the criminal case was none other than the Japanese Government and military authorities. So the issue of "comfort women" was raised as a pending issue between Japan and the countries concerned at present and submitted to the U.N. as the issue of war-time human rights violation.

The Japanese government alleged that the "matter had been organized by civilian businessmen" when this issue was first raised.

Although the "comfort women" case took place 50 years ago, it is not the matter of past, but the matter of today, because its evidence and the main culprit have been confirmed recently.

The "comfort women" issue was not handled by the international military tribunal established after the 2nd World War and by any other international organs, though it was one of the greatest criminal actions against humanity.

And the matter has not been taken up at intergovernmental negotiations between Japan and the victim-countries.

the issue of compensation for the damage. After all it is related to the settlement of the post Second World War issues. At the same time, it is the common task facing the international community to establish the justice and morality of international society.

2. Investigation by the DPRK Government

In January 1991 when the 1st full-dress intergovernmental talks for normalizing relations between the DPRK and Japan opened in Pyongyang, the DPRK side presented the issue of "comfort women for the army" as part of the issues of compensation including 1 million loss of lives and forcible recruitment of 6 million people, and asked the Japanese side to adopt measures for compensation.

The Japanese side, however, tried to dodge responsibility for the compensation for the loss of lives, alleging that everything was done according to the laws in those days, while evading his remarks on Japan's crimes.

At the Korea-Japan intergovernmental talks which was held after the discovery of official documents confirming that the main culprit of the "comfort women" case was not the civilian businessmen but the Japanese government and military authorities, the Japanese Government maintains that they are ready to discuss the issue of "comfort women" in the framework of property claims, however those who claim compensation should be responsible for furnishing evidence for the fact." Now that the Japanese Government adopted negative attitude towards compensation instead of making sincere apology, the DPRK Government has found itself under the imperative necessity of making full investigation into all the damages such as the loss of manpower and materials as well as moral and cultural damage including "comfort women" case which had been committed during the Japanese occupation of Korea for 41 years.

In May last year the 7th round of Korea-Japan intergovernmental talks was held. Around this time new materials proving the illegality of the past "treaties" were discovered, showing that all the crimes such as the forcible drafting of 6 million Koreans, 200,000 Korean "comfort women" and one million loss of lives had been closely related with the illegality of the past "treaties."

On the basis of these materials, the DPRK Government decided to set up the "Fact-Finding Committee on the Damage Caused by the Japanese Imperialists During Their Occupation of Korea" (hereinafter referred to as the "Fact-Finding Committee on the Damage") which consisted of government officials from the ministries and commissions of our country, officials from local administrative organs at various levels and scholars on history and international judicial experts on human rights and lawyers.

The Fact-Finding Committee on the Damage is a fully independent and permanent organ whose main mission is to present recommendations and opinions to the DPRK Government and Supreme People's Assembly after the full exchange of opinions and much consultation with government officials concerned, civilian organizations, scholars, lawyers from other countries and international organizations disregarding political relations, and on the basis of full-scale explication of the illegality of Japanese colonial rule in Korea for 41 years with a view to resolving the issue of reparation and compensation in accordance with international law.

Since its organization in May 24 last year up to June 30 this year, 131 women have been identified as "comfort women". Out of them 34 women agreed to take the witness stand.

As far as the remaining 97 women are concerned, some do not want to present themselves at the open testimony and some others, due to objection from their families and relatives.

In deference to their wishes the Fact-Finding Committee on the Damage has decided not to make public their privacy.

In preparing this Interim Findings on the crimes, the Committee has based itself upon the testimonies of 131 victims and official documents and information obtained at home and abroad.

II. TRUTH OF THE CASE OF "COMFORT WOMEN FOR THE ARMY"

lity of the past "treaties" were discovered, showing that all the crimes

It is very important to correctly understand the term of the "comfort women for the army" before referring to the truth of this case.

"KOJIEN", an authoritative Japanese language dictionary, defines that "'comfort woman' means a woman who gave comfort to the officers and soldiers in the battlefields accompanying the units."

There were "comfort women" who served the old Japanese army during the Sino-Japanese War in 1894 and the Russo-Japanese War in 1904.

It is a well-known fact that there were "prostitute quarters" near the areas throughout the world where troops were stationing.

But the "comfort women for the army" are different from the former case, because the victims suffered the organized rape and gang-rape under the sex slavery system introduced by the Japanese government and military authorities.

The "comfort women for the army", therefore, as a Japanese terminology, may be defined as the "women subjected to the organized gang-rape system of the Japanese army operated in accordance with the policy of the government and the military authorities of Japan for their execution of war before and mainly during the 15-year war period (1931-1945)."

1. Motive and Objectives of "Comfort Women for the Army" Case

Title lefter of releast reads;

- Criminal Motive

• It is said that the "comfort women" system came into being after the "dispatch of Japanese troops to Siberia" (from August 1918 to October 1922).

When the Russian "October Revolution" emerged victorious in November 1917, Japan dispatched a force 73,000 strong which consisted of six divisions, the headquarters, a MP corps, a provisional telegraph corps, a railway regiment and a quartermaster corps, with a view to seize Siberia.

In those days commercialized prostitution was allowed in the Japanese army. But soldiers were unable to approach prostitutes because they worked at low salary under the conscription system.

Dissatisfied Japanese troops started raping Russian women in their posts and battlefields. The result was that the venereal disease spread and this decreased considerably combat capabilities.

At that time those who were killed in battle numbered 1,387. The number of those who were wounded reached 2,066 and that of those who caught diseases was 941. The number of those who quitted the battlefields because of venereal disease was 2,012, the figure larger than the war dead and equal to the wounded.

• On January 28, 1932, the next year after the "September 18 Incident" in 1931 the Japanese army fabricated the "1st Shanghai Incident" in order to divert the attention of big powers from Manchuria.

In those days the Japanese soldiers raped numerous local women. In such a situation a lieutenant general Okamura, the then chief of staff of the expeditionary army, had to ask the governor of Nagasaki Prefecture to send comfort women for the army.

The letter of request reads:

"...To my shame, I was the initiator of the comfort women scheme. At the time of the Shanghai Incident, there were two or three rape cases, so I invited comfort women from the Governor of Nagasaki Prefecture following the example of a navy unit nearby. Afterwards, no rape incident was reported. Now a comfort women corps is functioning in each unit."

O The Japanese army launched a full-scale war against China after having invented the "Lugouchiao Incident" on July 7, 1937 and played a major role in starting the "Nanjing Massacre Incident" in December of the same year.

The incident was accompanied by large-scale plunder and rape, causing considerable damage to China. In the meantime, venereal disease caused by rape had a demoralizing influence on the minds of the Japanese army.

The Japanese army became more ferocious in the war and conducted murder, plunder, rape and wrecking activities randomly. In order to cope with this disorder, it was necessary to develop an idea. Thus came an idea of "distributing comfort women to the soldiers."

nosts and battlefields. The result was that the veneral likease suread

-Objectives

According to materials discovered so far, the objectives the Japanese government and military authorities set forth in introducing the "comfort women" system are:

ted the distillields because of venereal disease was 2012 the figure

Firstly, to raise the morale of the Japanese officers and soldiers;

Secondly, to prevent rape by Japanese officers and soldiers in their occupied areas and the spread of venereal disease;

Thirdly, to prevent violence and plunder against the local people and maintain public peace and order in their occupied areas.

2. The Period of Introduction of the "Comfort Women" System

A ten-day report on sanitary monditions (from Suptember 1932 to

On July 6, 1992, Kato Koichi, the then Chief Cabinet Secretary, announced in a press conference the results of interim investigation concerning the "comfort women" issue, in which he mentioned about the data of 1936 alone in connection with the time of introduction of the "comfort women for the army" system.

But, the official documents discovered in the Japanese state archives by the "Fact-Finding Group for the Forcible Drafting of Koreans" which was organized by Japanese lawyers, scholars and officials of Chongryon (General Association of Korean Residents in Japan) the "comfort women" system was already in force in 1933.

Ri Kyong Saeng (75), in Wonchon-ri, Thaedong County, South Phyongan Province, was the first to take the witness stand on May 3, 1992, as a victim. She testified to the fact that she was forced to serve as a "comfort girl" in 1929 at the age of 12 at a munitions factory located in Changwon County, South Kyongsang Province under the surveillance of the Japanese army after having been drafted.

Her testimony revealed that the "comfort house" had been established in the army in 1929 or before and the "comfort houses" system was introduced even in the munitions factories operated by the Japanese army.

panese women their age was older than that tole koreans and there was no Japanese them to Japanese the source of t

- Nationality as as 1026 II against use algorithms to the business of the control of the control

According to the official documents discovered so far and the testimonies by the former doctors of the Japanese army, those who served in the Japanese army and the survivors of the former "comfort women", most of the "comfort women" were Koreans.

A ten-day report on sanitary conditions (from September 1932 to December 1933), an official document drawn up in connection with the operation of the "comfort houses" by the Japanese 14th Brigade Headquarters, revealed that "35 Koreans out of 38 comfort women..." This document was discovered in the Japanese state archives in December last year.

According to Chapter II titled "Prostitute," a report on the method of how to "prevent the venereal disease" which was written by Aso Tetzuo who served as an army doctor in China at the hospital of the 11th Army Corps from 1937 to the day of Japan's defeat, the "number of Korean prostitutes was 80 and that of Japanese was 20."

In August last year, Ichikawa Isirosi (72 years old), the former Japanese army officer of the military police disclosed in a forum held in Tokyo that he served as an inspector at the "comfort house" in Manchukuo then under the occupation by the Japanese army for one and half years and confessed that "comfort women" were mostly Koreans.

The survived victims of the former "comfort women" now living in our country testified that there were only Korean women in the "comfort houses" where they had served.

During the period of the Pacific War the government and military authorities of Japan also took away some local women in other Asian countries under their occupation. The victims disclosed until now were of the nationality of China, the Philippines, Taiwan, Indonesia, Malaysia and the Netherlands.

It is the true that there were some Japanese women. In the case of Japanese women their age was older than that of Koreans and there was no Japanese woman who testified that she was a former "comfort woman." These facts suggest that the Japanese women practiced prostitution voluntarily for money-making.

men" was taking carried oid in a disorderly way under the proleage at it was valided by the army, and that those responsible for regulating

At the time when they were drafted, the age of 131 former "comfort women" now living in our country were:

Age			number
-nu fire ba	12	15	18	unmarried limit syong
	16	19	63	unmarried
	20	24	30 m/ s	ew 1 married someth nailly on a wealth married something the something t
	25	29	net 6 ion we	iont 1 unmarried ataliance and
Vottof and	Over	30	ernome 2	The weer him barried and the married and the m

* The remaining 12 could not be confirmed because they died or lost memory and for other reasons.

These statistical data show that the government and military authorities of Japan drafted those women as young as possible and even young married women.

* The average age of Japanese "comfort women" was 10 years older

- Method of Recruitment Application was lifting and and bar

The official document "on recruiting employees for the comfort houses" which was discovered in the archives of the Japanese Defence Agency by Yoshimi Yosiaki, professor of Chuo University in Japan was a "notification" from the Ministry of Japanese Army to the Japanese units stationed in China in 1938. It carried the signature of each department chief and was finally approved by Umez, the then Vice-Minister of the Army (later promoted to the General Chief of Staff).

The "notification" pointed out that the recruitment of "comfort wo-notification pointed out that the recruitment of men" was being carried out in a disorderly way under the pretext that it was ratified by the army, and that those responsible for recruiting were impairing the prestige of the army by applying the abduction method, and carried the order that the civilian businessmen should be selected carefully and that the expeditionary force should play a major role, while cooperating closely with the local MPs and police.

This shows one aspect of the recruitment of "comfort women" and proves that the recruitment by civilian businessmen was carried out under the control of the military authorities.

At the end of war all the government and military organs such as civilian businessmen who were under the control of and financed by the government and military authorities of Japan, military police, the consulate and local administration were set in motion.

The recruitment of "comfort women" was carried out in the following four methods.

Firstly, to lure women into the "comfort houses," giving a promise that they would be provided with good jobs;

Secondly, to kidnap women in their residential quarters or in the residential quarters or in

Thirdly, to recruit women first in the name of "voluntary corps" and then forcibly make them "comfort women";

Fourthly, to transfer those women who failed to pay loans to the civilian businessmen. (In this case civilian businessmen were those who went on "comfort women" hunting ordered by the military authorities.)

Out of 131 victims in our country, the second form numbered 67, the first form being 44 and then followed by the fourth and third forms.

It is the true that there were

Yoshida Seiji, an official at the Yamaguchi Association for Labour to Protect the Country, who was mobilized in drafting Korean "comfort women" from 1942 to the day of Japan's defeat. He confessed that he had been provided with trucks and soldiers in Korea during the war from the Army Headquarters for women hunting.

4. Management and Operation of "Comfort Houses" place to another, private bouses and stables were used for "comfo? hou-

- Forms of Operation and Visitors to "Comfort Houses"

According to the testimonies made by 131 former "comfort women" in our country, there were "comfort houses" managed directly by the army or by civilians. Medical check-up was done by army doctors.

They testified that all of them served for the armymen only.

Judging from this fact, we may therefore reasonably conclude that there were two forms of "comfort houses", the one directly operated by the army and the other operated by civilian businessmen formerly, but it was actually under the control of the army.

The former form, that is, under the management by civilian businessmen was aimed at preventing the "prestige of army" from being impaired. This form was adopted in the units in towns and residential areas.

At that time the "comfort houses" were run under such names as the "Soldiers' Club", "Soldiers' Hall" and "Army Amusement Centre." Those run by the civilian businessmen outwardly sometimes bore the local names.

According to the photographs taken by Aso Tetsuo, a medical examination for "comfort women" at that time, the "regulations for the comfort house" was ming up at the entrance to a "comfort house" sesued troimod" to noise "sesued to a "comfort house".

According to the testimonies made by the victims, the size of "comfort houses" was slightly different according to the units and areas. But it may be summarized as follows.

1938, which reads:

One "comfort house" could accommodate 20 to 30 visitors, and one woman was allotted to each room which was partitioned by straw mat or bag.

O A ticket holder shall go to the designated room. 30 minutes to The space of each room was 2.5 square meters for two persons to lie down, and there were some simple furniture and bed clothes such as a dressing table, blankets and pillows.

With the war dragging on and the front line being moved from one place to another, private houses and stables were used for "comfort houses". In the closing years of war dugouts and trenches were sometimes used. Such "comfort houses" could be found everywhere where the Japanese troops were stationing.

According to the testimonies made by the victims in our country, the location of "comfort houses" was as follows.

Chonghak-ri, Kyonghung County of the then North Hamgyong Province, Phabal-ri, Phungsan County of the then South Hamgyong Province; Changwon, South Kyongsang Province; Mokpho, South Jolla Province in our country; Harbin, Shanghai, Tianjin, Nanjing, Mudanjiang Province, Fengtien (Shenyang), Luoheishan in Heilongjiang Province Xiaoxinganling Range, Jinzhou, Hulin, Qiqihar, Shijiangzhuang in China; the Philippines, Indonesia, Singapore, Taiwan, Brunei, Burma and Japan.

- Regulations With Regard to "Comfort Houses"

All the "comfort houses" were subject to regulations enforced by the headquarters of each unit.

According to the photographs taken by Aso Tetsuo, a medical officer who was in charge of medical examination for "comfort women" at that time, the "regulations for the comfort house" was hung up at the entrance to a "comfort house" in the suburbs of Shanghai in February 1938, which reads:

- "O The comfort house admits soldiers and civilian employees of the army (odd-job men excluded) only and every visitor shall carry his leave permit.
- A visitor shall pay at the ticket office and have an admission ticket and condom.
- A ticket holder shall go to the designated room. 30 minutes

- The admission ticket shall be handed over to the waitress.
- O After affair is over, leave the room immediately.
- Those who violate the regulations or military discipline and who corrupt public morals shall be ordered away from the house.
- Those who do not use condom shall be forbidden to contact. • Eastern Logistic Command'

("waitress" refers to a "comfort woman")

There were other regulations to be observed by "comfort women" that "...The notion of co-ownership of waitress shall prevail and the monopoly notion shall be prohibited...' 'and "the waitress shall understand the feelings of the visitors, treat them equally and faithfully attend to her duty, giving no inconveniences to them." (Additional provisions of the "Regulations for Soldiers' Club" at Unit 3475 in 1944) violence shall be committed towards business managers and The house is out limits to heavy drinkers."

their For day,
soldier soldier	30 minutes	hour hour	09.00	12.00
non-commissioned officer			The condom by the Japa solo 00.81
s and handed cover showing andoms to with the man	hatemi	anh adt at t	20,00	dawn next day

As mentioned above, the Japanese military authorities committed group violation and gang-rape under such regulations and forced innocent women to serve as sex slaves. Even such enforcement regulations were ignored as the war was expanded, in this way savage methods

Charges and pulled

National Mark discipline and white	Charges (yen) sundercorrupt public moroif shall be
Korean Logistic Command.	O Those who do not 5.1 condom
Japanese - " -	2.0 settine in our country

O The atimission ticket shall be handed over to the "waitress".

* For officers (warrant officers included) payment was doubled.

. "There were other regulations to be observed by "comfort avomen"

In addition to these, the regulations ruled: "Drinking is forbidden within the comfort house", "Payment and hour assignment shall never bear no dalay", "Women are all affected by venereal disease, so a carefully thoughtout measure shall be adopted to prevent it", "No violence shall be committed towards business managers" and "The house is off limits to heavy drinkers."

In accordance with such regulations, soldiers from each unit came to the "comfort houses" in groups and waited for their turn every day.

Soldiers in turn went to the ticket office to pay charges and received admission tickets and condoms marked with "Charge I."

* The condoms marked with "Charge 1" were war supplies produced by the Japanese "Kokusai Rubber" Company and supplied to the soldiers.

Then soldiers went to the designated rooms and handed over "admission tickets" to the "comfort women." After showing condoms to the women, they entered into bodily intercourse with them.

As mentioned above, the Japanese military authorities committed group violation and gang-rape under such regulations and forced innocent women to serve as sex slaves. Even such enforcement regulations were ignored as the war was expanded. In this way savage methods were applied in the "comfort houses."

- Medical Checkup

According to the official document and testimonies made by the victims, medical checkup was strict.

fuarcot punishment, as a concentration of

The medical checkup was a little different from each unit, but mostly once a week or 10 days.

Checkup was done by army doctors simply to confirm the presence of V.D.

Because the Japanese army was afraid of V.D. being spread, rigid control was exercised over the use of condoms. If any soldiers would violate regulations, this fact was reported to the managers through "comfort women".

In some places where condoms were in short supply, old condoms were used by cleaning. The "comfort women" had to undertake their cleaning. An Injection known as 606 was applied to persons venereally infected.

When "comfort women" were cured of disease, they had to serve again. If not recovered, they were taken away to the unknown places by the soldiers at night. Nobody knew about their whereabouts.

ven, the whole body was swolfen but. In less than one week from abortion, they were lorged to serve again. "essued strofmoo" att in id. ...

According to the testimonies made by the victims in our country, girls had to serve first the officers for several days and then the soldiers. It was an established rule.

Beautiful women were monopolized by the officers. These women had fewer visitors and comparably freer than others. I deposit next

Violence was used towards those women who rejected sexual service. When resistance continued, all "comfort women" were ordered to gather together. Then a most strong protester was picked up to cut off her neck with a sword and open fire at her sexual organ in the eyes of the vrowds. In this way, "comfort women" were compelled to obey for fear of punishment.

93 among 131 victims in our country witnessed such acts and most of them have on their bodies scars received in those days.

Upon arrival in the "comfort houses," "comfort women" were called by the Japanese names or by their room numbers. Within the "comfort houses," no free exchange of words was allowed and they were prohibited from speaking Korean language.

Except for the time to take meal and go to stool the "comfort women" were not allowed to come out of their rooms. In short, they were under on 24-hour guard. In some places, meals were served in the rooms.

There was no fixed period of service for them. The period of service was ended when they succeeded in deserting the "comfort houses" or die.

They were barred from writing to their parents or relatives. Even they died, death notices were not issued.

Each "comfort woman" had to deal with 20-25 Japanese soldiers a day and 40 on Sundays.

When they became pregnant, caused by condoms trouble, they were given injections for forcible abortion. Soon after this injection was given, the whole body was swollen out. In less than one week from abortion, they were forced to serve again. Such Japanese acts were committed under the "order of the Emperor."

Weak women got ill or died, because of continued service, violence and lack of nourishment. They were soon replaced by new ones. Some women committed suicide, unable to endure savage acts.

Even though they were subjected to maltreatment, they were never rewarded. Many women did not know that soldiers paid money to the management board for their enjoyment.

According to the testimonies made by the victims the "comfort women" gave the admission tickets to the managers every day. The vice, When resistance continued, all "comfort women" were ordered to quantity of meal was decided by these admission tickets. It was said that the managers promised the women that the earned money would be saved and paid back when returning home.

5. Treatment for "Comfort Women" at the End of War

Those who have miraculously survived to the present day were the women who were healthy at the time or blessed with a good luck.

The following is the analysis of the released women from the "comfort houses".

in.	Defectors not book rebust of her bust role is in 24
2	Taken prisoners by the Allied Forces
	Those deserted by the Japanese army
	Those survived from the disorder in the war 27
	Others

* Out of the two mentioned above, one was set free thanks to the efforts of her family who offered a bribe to the chief manager. The other escaped together with a Japanese soldier. The remaining 11 women could not be confirmed because some died or for some other reasons.

As is seen by these statistics, there was no one whom the Japanese army made her back to the home.

The survived victims testified that many "comfort women" were killed together with Japanese soldiers, hit by bullets fired by the troops of the Allied forces or massacred by the Japanese army.

There is no room for doubt that such a massacre was done to conceal the crimes committed against the "comfort women."

In this connection, we cannot but pay attention to the remarks in his election campaign on November 20, 1965 by Mr. Arahune, the then member of the House of Representatives, a senior member of the LDP who was once nominated for Vice-Presidency of the House of Representatives, and a profit of the control of the cont

Here is a copy of his speech at a lecture.

One passage from the copy reads;

"... 142,000 Korean 'comfort women' died. The Japanese soldiers kil-Those who have nursculously survived to the present day", ment bel women who were healthy at the time or blessed with a good luc

When a dangerous situation was created, some Japanese soldiers ran away, abandoning "comfort women".

In such a situation, the young women, unfamiliar with the locality and language in an alien land, had to wander about jungles aimlessly.

Most of them are believed to have died while wandering jungles or by bombing. Some survivors were those who had a close call.

Those survived from the disorder in the war . . . 27

6. The Number of "Comfort Women"

Out of the two mentioned above one was set free thanks to the

No official data identifying the list and the total number of "comfort women" are still available.

But a conservative estimate puts the number of "comfort women" at some 200,000 and there is every ground to prove this estimation.

Firstly, According to the official confirmation, the "comfort women" system was introduced from 1933 and lasted by 1945, killed together with Japanese soldicares to the troops of the Altied Vertest on the Japanese army danced by the Japanese army danced never

Secondly, the Japanese army had a force 3 million strong at that time and most of the units were provided with "comfort ceal the crimes committed against the "comfort s"cnemow

The Japanese words "Nikuichi" on the tongues of Japanese soldiers at the time may be interpreted into the meaning that one comfort woman was allocated to every 29 Japanese soldiers. The part and namew

From the above-mentioned figures, the number of victims may be calculated in the following way:

3,000,000 / 29 = 103,448.3 enoiliber of privide. st sent server and server After the War or the server and sell sell

The woman who withstood the sexual service for 12 years is not vet confirmed. The vacancies caused by disease, death and defection were filled up by new ones constantly. Taking this fact into consideration, if calculated on a 1.5 - 2.0 - fold basis, the total number will come The "comfort women" who survived and returned home after lot

This calculation is supported by the Document "Wartime Ten-Day Report" (April 11-20 in the 14th year of Showa) drawn up by the Headquarters of the 21st Japanese Army Corps. According to it, the units under this army corps had more than 1,000 "comfort girls" A of mentalised

This 21st Army Corps had 40,000 effectives. So the following figure is given: so they were not in a position to openly lodge con invited in

If this figure is applied to the total number of troop strength, the number will come to: all villeads, charling olden times, charling it is to marry, From olden times, charling it is to marry.

the Korean
$$000,001$$
 or $0.000,001$ or $0.000,000$ $0.000,000$ or $0.000,000$ 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000 0.000

This calculation is based on the average figure in the 14th year of Showa, that is, the year of 1939. Hills and your warm that vice in the "comfort houses", saving that they worked at mess rooms,

The years after 1941 witnessed the massive hunting of women. Considering this fact, it is quite reasonable that the total number of "comfort women" reached more than 200,000, and right of guinalder healthw

The following figures indicate the years when 131 women were drafted, galvil won are year

* The remaining 15 are not yet confirmed, silodanalant but another

It is very important to confirm the exact number of the "comfort women for the army" in the settlement of the issue of "comfort women."

7. Living Conditions of the "Comfort Women" After the War

The woman who withstood the sexual service for SP years is not

- Mental and Psychological Damage and want of an halfit staw

The "comfort women" who survived and returned home after the war were very small in number and they were not inclined to reveal their past life out of a sense of shame.

The survivors did not tell even their parents about this fact. Some parents who came to learn the disgraceful past of their daughters advised them to keep it secret, thinking of their future.

This calculation is supported by the Document "Wartime Ten-Day

After the war their average age was from 18 to 22. They were still unmarried, so they were not in a position to openly lodge complaints against Japan's crimes.

Lodging complaints meant that they would be deprived of the moral right to marry. From olden times, chastity has been considered for the Korean women to be their lifeblood and the disgrace caused therefrom has been regarded to be more dreadful than death.

That was why they were obliged to tell falsehood about their service in the "comfort houses", saying that they worked at mess-rooms, hospitals and laundries for the Japanese army as cooks, nurses and washwomen. Still others settled in other areas changing their names without returning to their home villages.

It has been confirmed that not a small number of women remain in an alien land or went to other countries. They are now living in China, Japan, Thailand and Hong Kong.

Almost all the victims discovered in the course of investigation are being tormented by such symptoms as human phobia, lack of self-confidence and melancholia.

From olden times, the Korean women have been refraining from smoking. This is an established sense of morality. But many of these victims still cannot bear to be without smoking. They say smoking is the way to relieve their mental suffering.

An absolute majority of the survivors of the former "comfort women for the army" refused to get married. Many women who married had to have their marriage annulled because their past life caused trouble.

Only six women were married to unmarried persons. Most of them entered into matrimony with those men with children.

Most of the married were unable to give birth to babies. They are now living with the help of the children of the first wives or the adopted children.

Their physical suffering still persists in and no medicine is believed

When they were advised, during an interview, to forget their past for the sake of their health since many years passed, they were unanimous in saying that they could do so if their past memories were simply confined to physical suffering, but their dignity and girlhood were so ruthlessly violated that they could never forget the mental agony of those days.

-Physical Damage named Women Women against the Purpose of the "Comfort Women and I am a second and I a

The survivors of the former "comfort women" now living in our country are still experiencing intolerable physical pain due to the aftereffects of maltreatment received at the "comfort houses" during the war.

The medical check-up conducted on 34 victims in Pyongyang and in each province, city and county proved that 13 of them underwent an operation for hysterectomy at the age of 30 to 40, 18 were suffering from leucorrhea, 22 from heart neuralgia, 3 from oral and auditory disorder and 26 have scars.

The others were in for stomach trouble, heart disease, hypertension and neuralgia.

There was no one without disease. The was no one without disease.

One woman had detestable tattoos in her lips, around her private part and on the body, for the shame of which she could not go bathing and swimming with her friends.

Thirty-four women out of them proved to be far bad in health than those of the same age. I and to stowy the same age and the same age. I all the same age and the same age and the same age at the same age. I all the same age at the same age at the same age at the same age.

Twenty-seven women were disabled earlier than others and retired from public service before the age of 55, the year when the women were to be given the right to get pensions out of state funds.

entered into matrimony with those men with children

So far no information has been available to prove that 131 former "comfort women" received money or goods in reward for their sexual services.

Their physical suffering still persists in and no medicine is believed to be curative of their diseases caused by mental agony.

III. OUR VIEW ON "COMFORT WOMEN" CASE AND DEMAND

mous in saying that they could do so if their past memories were sim-

1. The Purpose of the "Comfort Women" Case Was in Pursuance of the Policy of Eliminating no ni gnivil won "namthe Korean National lo savivus affected all and the purpose of the Policy of Eliminating and the Policy of

The Japanese government claimed that the introduction of a "comfort women" system was aimed at "preventing rape and venereal disease" and "maintaining public peace." This advocacy was to cover the true objective.

ellects of mattreatment received at the "comfort drouses" dering the way,

On the basis of investigation conducted so far, the Fact-Finding Committee on the Damage has reached conclusion that the "comfort women" case was part of an eliminate-the-Korean nation policy actively pursued by the Japanese government and the military authorities as advantage was taken of Japan's invasion of Manchuria, the Sino-Japanese War and the Pacific War.

This can be explained by the following facts: win asgut penerod

Firstly, almost all "comfort women" were composed of young Korean women.

through "annexation" and the two nations of Korea and Japan were on an equal status legally, as insisted by the Japanese government delegation to DPRK-Japan talks, an absolute majority of "comfort women for the army" should have been composed of by Japanese women. (Of course, if the Japanese women were used as sexual slaves, it should also be considered to be a punishable crime.)

At the time, Korea had a population of 20-30 million, whereas Japan contained 50-70 million population.

There was no persuasion in the logic that the Korean women under Japan's occupation who had a strong hatred for Japan, unlike the Japanese counterparts, should "comfort" the Japanese army sexually.

But the main source of the "comfort women for the army" was the Korean women.

The reason is not far to seek. "Asset or the reason of not seek army description, and public order within the army

When drafting the Korean women as "comfort women", the Japanese government and military authorities formed a scheme to kill them after using them.

This is proved by the materials concerning the management and operation of the "comfort houses" and by the testimonies by the victims.

instead of punishing him, but

There were no laws and regulations for the protection of the lives and health of "comfort girls" and their generative functions. They were treated like articles.

There is ample evidence to show that the Japanese soldiers committed violence and murder freely against "comfort women" but no material showing that such crimes were dealt with at the Japanese military tribunal.

Because Japan intended to obliterate the Korean nation, terminating the existence and generative functions of a large number of young Korean women amounting to 200,000 was not contradictory to Japanese law and this accorded with Japan's eliminate-the-Korean-nation policy.

This policy ended with the defeat of Japan in the war in August 1945. We made his sould be sound on the war in August 1945.

If the war dragged on for more 10 years, it should be perfectly clear that most of the young Korean women would be taken to the "comfort houses" and the future of the Korean nation would be endangered.

Secondly, the "system of the comfort houses" was "necessary" only for the Japanese army. 08-02 to not slurged a bard seried and JA.

contained 50-70 million population.

The Japanese Government explains that the "comfort houses" were established to prevent raping and the spread of V.D. and maintain public order in the occupied territories by Japanese troops.

World history of wars until then had recorded a number of rape cases by individual foreign servicemen in the occupied areas.

When such cases took place, the military authorities usually punished severely those criminals by martial law to maintain the honour, discipline and public order within the army.

Instead of punishing the criminals by martial law the Japanese military authorities established the "comfort houses" legally by forcibly drafting the innocent women.

This step is considered to be tantamount to giving robbed things to someone and asking him not to commit robbery outside the house, instead of punishing him.

We ask Japan: is it a Japanese mode of thinking that public order is maintained by means of giving the robbed things to the thieves and offering the drafted women to those who violate them?

The Japanese government's allegation concerning the "prevention of rape and V.D." and "maintenance of public order" does not stand to reason. This is nothing but a pretext.

From this we consider that the Japanese government introduced a "comfort women" system to promote its policy to obliterate the Korean nation by using the war as a pretext.

The active promotion of this policy—this was the hidden aim of the "comfort women" case.

which invaded other country and Koreans were in a status of slavery.

2. Historical Background of the "Comfort Women" Case

At the time when this "comfort women" system was in force, our people were virtually slaves who were deprived of all political rights and the means of production due to the plunder and the repressive rule by the Japanese imperialists.

In all schools in Korea, the pupils and students were forbidden to speak Korean language and Koreans were forced to "change their names into Japanese ones." At the same time, they were forced to worship the Japanese Emperor and visit the "Shinto Shrine."

The 6 million Korean young people were drafted under various names such as commandeering, conscription, and "Volunteers Corps' and sent to coal and ore mines and construction sites in Korea and Japan and forced to work as slaves. They became expendables in the war fought in their interests of the Japanese imperialists and many of them disabled.

More than I million Koreans were sacrificed during the period when Korea was under the occupation of the Japanese imperialists.

The "comfort women" case came into being against such a historical background. The same of the land same and the background are the same of the same o

The Japanese government and military authorities drafted 200,000 Korean women to make them serve the Japanese army as sexual slaves. But this did not provoke social criticism.

This was because our country was under the occupation of Japanese troops.

Japan fabricated illegal treaties on the basis of the occupation of Korea and the reduction of our people to the status of slavery. In this way she announced that the "annexation" of Korea to Japan was internationality ratified.

But Korea was not "annexed" to Japan. Koreans and Japanese were not on an equal footing. The Japanese army was an occupation army which invaded other country and Koreans were in a status of slavery.

The active promotion of this policy - this was the hidden alm of

This is confirmed by the "Cairo Declaration" dated November 27, 1943, which stated that "Paying attention to the Korean people kept in bondage, Korea shall be free and independent soon."

At the time when this "comfort women" system was in force our

The "comfort women" case was one of the crimes committed by the Japanese government and military authorities which illegally occupied our country and enslaved our people for 41 years with the help of the strong armed forces.

in all schools in Korea, the pipils and stolents were forbidden to

3. International Legal Responsibility the Japanese and Sovernment should Assume speak Korean language and Koreans were forced to "change their names into Japanese ones. At the same time they were forced to worship

The "Comfort Women" Case is the "Crimes Against Humanity".

The "comfort women" case is the "crime against humanity" which violates Paragraph C of Article 6 stipulated in the Law of the Nurnberg International Military Court for the trial of the German war criminals and Article 5 stipulated in the Law of the Tokyo War Crimes Tribunal for the Far East established after the Second World War for the trial of the Japanese war criminals.

It is stipulated in the laws that the "crimes against humanity, as murder, annihilation, slavery, forced emigration, displacement committed against all civilians and other inhuman acts before or during war, or persecution committed on political, racial and religious reasons as the crimes to be dealt under the jurisdiction of this court, whether or not they violate the local laws of the country where the crimes had been committed."

Such rules were approved by the UN General Assembly in a resolution adopted on December 11, 1946, which clarified the principles of international law.

In the light of international law, the "comfort women" case was the "crime against humanity" as inhuman acts which enslaved the innocent women of the other country and killed most of them.

international laws were punished and the governments concerned gave compensations to the victims or their bereaved families after the war.

But, in spite of the fact that Japan committed crimes against "comfort women", violating human rights applicable to the international law "crime against humanity", those responsible for such crimes have not yet been punished and the Japanese Government did not give any compensation to the victims.

- The "Comfort Women" Case Is a Gross Violation of Human Rights, a Crime Still Not Canceled by International Law.

- Overall Investigation into the Crimes and Opening the Results to the

It is known to all that the prescription on war crimes and the "crime against humanity" is positive in terms of international law.

On November 26, 1968 the UN General Assembly adopted by 58 ayes and 7 noes the convention not to apply the prescription on the war crimes and the "crime against humanity."

The Nazi war criminals were punished by the Nurnberg International Military Court established after the 2nd World War.

But Germany (then West Germany) enacted local laws to punish the Nazi war criminals. In a situation in which many other war criminals were not arrested, it revised the law whose prescription was to be expired on December 31, 1969 to cancel the term of prescription.

sible for the "comfort wemen" case, and thus express mile

But the Japanese Government has tried to cover its crimes for nearly half a century. Now that such crimes have been exposed to the world, it tries to avoid the responsibility for compensation, saying that the "government and military authorities were involved in the management and operation of the system of comfort women, but there is no evidence to show that women were forcibly drafted." val she and named that the temperature of American Inches

4. Fair Solution for the "Comfort Women" Issue

The introduction, management and operation of the "comfort women" system is the greatest crimes against humanity which resulted in destroying human dignity and moral civilization and which achieved ultimate in discrimination against women and other nation. So, the "comfort women" issue can never be settled simply by offering money. fort women", violating human rights applicable to the international law

We hold that this issue should be resolved in accordance with the following principles. It is a line of the Japanese Government in ... self-initially self-initial

- Overall Investigation into the Crimes and Opening the Results to the - The "Comfort Women" Case Is a Gross Violation of Human alduq

a Crime Still Not Canceled by Josephational Lawsmann The Japanese Government must examine the following matters and officially express that it recognizes the fact.

- . Forcible drafting
- . Forcible drafting
 . Main culprits for the "comfort women" case
- . The matter concerning other victims and their whereabouts except the confirmed survivors
- . Inhuman treatment of "comfort women"
- Violation of international law resulting from the "crimes against humanity" and an include horizing by the control of the co

- Punishment of Main Culprits on milentians of selection to the land

trial of the Japanese was recommonly

The Japanese Government should enact its local law and punish those responsible for the "comfort women" case, and thus express its heartfelt soul-searching to he victims, managed and full were not arrested, it revised the law whose prescription was to be exhibed

Punishment should have for its purpose to restore the damaged international morality and prevent the recurrence of such crimes, not to revenge the Japanese criminals. Demanding a certain amount of financial compensation means que.

A certain period should be set to enable the criminals to confess their crimes. Those who do not surrender themselves to justice, should be ferreted out, committed for ttrial and dealt with in accordance with the decision of the court.

. Even for those who were dead, verdicts should be pronounced on them as long as their crimes are confirmed, and this fact The present attitude adopted by the Labbroom of bluodent reveals old noiles. For those who have repented of their past crimes and confessed their crimes, they should not be committed for trial, but be forgiven his offenses. Instead of adopting measures for compensation to the survivors at

- Expression of Formal Apology at belled at Landward meliting and avior

The Japanese Government must express its heartfelt soul-searching to the victim countries, individual victims and the international com-If the Japanese Government persists in adopting such attitude, it

- Adoption of the resolution at the Parliament
 - . Expression of apology at the UN General Assembly
 - . Official expression at inter-government talks
 - . Erection of a memorial tower
 - . Giving an account of the crimes to the history textbooks

- Sincere Compensation

The "comfort women" case is not a material damage, so it is impossible even by a fabulous amount of money or gold to restore the wounds of victims to the original state.

It is therefore difficult to ask for compensation able to restore the "comfort women" to the status quo.

However, in order to restore the honour of our victims and the damaged international justice, opportunities should be given to the Japanese Government to atone for the wrong it had done and compensate it materially.

Demanding a certain amount of financial compensation means giving an opportunity to the Japanese Government to repent of its past less their crimes; Those who do not surrender themselvemin

- International Settlement Through the United Nations

The present attitude adopted by the Japanese Government reveals that it does not recognize its crimes, for example, the forcible drafting of Korean women, and deliberately avoids the overall investigation into the case in point, estimated and binode walls, senting and had a more

Instead of adopting measures for compensation to the survivors at the earliest possible date, the Japanese Government is attemping to resolve the problem by what is called the "humanitarian fund."

This is an act of mockery of our nation and victims, as well as of international justice and conscience. Inabigibal salatanes miles and of

If the Japanese Government persists in adopting such attitude, it is necessary to establish an international tribunal through the United Nations to resolve this problem.

. Official expression at inter-government talks

shods, and account of the crimes to the matery textbooks

- Shicere Compensation - turning to nothing

The "comfort women" case is not a material damage, so it is impossible even by a fabulous amount of money or gold to restore the wounds of victims to the original state.

His therefore difficult to ask for compensation able to restore the "comfort women't for the status quo, a holmon" off no slice of the status

However, in order to restore the honour of our victims and the damaged international justice, opportunities should be given to the Japanese Covernment to atone for the wrong it had done and compensate if

APPENDIX

1. List of 34 Victims, Former "Comfort Women For the Army". Who Bore the Public Testimonies (up to June 30, 1993)

1. Ri Kvong Sneng

Birth places Grang county, whorth Hamgvong Province -MATERIALS MATERIALS

Taken to: A munitions factorwing Changwon county, South

2. Kim Tac H

Birth place: Sarlwon city, North Husbughae Province Present address: Haephyong-ri, Maephong county, Kaesong some Xinjing (Changehun), Shanghal, Nanjing and Harbin

3. Yun Kyong Ac

Present address: Kuryon-ri, Unpha county, awaid of mant

4. Ri Pok Nyo

-30 -

1. List of 34 Victims, Former "Comfort Women For the Army", Who Bore the Public Testimonies (up to June 30, 1993)

1. Ri Kyong Saeng

e phoriagil - The Japane-

Age: 76 (Born on August 29, 1917) Age: 76 (Born on August 29, 1917)

Birth place: Orang county, North Hamgyong Province Present address: Wonchon-ri, Taedong county, South Phyongan Province

Taken to: A munitions factory in Changwon county, South Kyongsang Province

Taken in: 1929

Kim Tae II

Age: 76 (Born on October 15, 1916) Birth place: Sariwon city, North Hwanghae Province Present address: Haephyong-ri, Kaephung county, Kaesong Taken to: 12th division of Japanese Army then stationed in Tokyo, Xinjing (Changchun), Shanghai, Nanjing and Harbin of China and Singapore

Taken in: 1934

3. Yun Kyong Ae

Age: 73 (Born on August 20, 1920) Birth place: Sanghae-ri, Samgang-myon, Jaeryong county, South Hwanghae Province Present address: Kuryon-ri, Unpha county, North Hwanghae Province

Taken to: Singapore Taken in: July 1941

4. Ri Pok Nyo

Age: 74 (Born in 1919)

Birth place: Suwon county, Kyonggi Province and and an and a solution of the s Present address: Kukdong Workers' district, Hwasong county, North Hamgyong Province 9. Ro Hyon Hwa Taken to: The then Northern Manchuria Taken in: 1942 Birth place: Jisa-ri, Ryonggang county, South nul lik gnak Present address: Aewon in Ryonggang county, Nampho Age: 84 (Born in 1909) and Sange Clans (Born in 1909) Birth place: Sosung-ri, Paekgun-myon, Kimje county, South Jolla Province Present address: Soa-ri, Paekgun-myon, Kimje county, Mill of South Jolla Province Present address: Soa-ri, Yonan county, South Hwanghae Province Taken to: Taiwan and Brunei Present address: Taephyongen, Philyand College and Present address: Taephyongen, Philyand College and Present address are a college and the co 6. Jong Ok Sun (Shenyang), China (Shenyang), Chi Age: 73 (Born in 1920) Birth place: Phabal-ri, Phungsan county, 11. Kim Yong Sil South Hamgyong Province Present address: Sayon-ri, Kangryong county, 83 1994 South Hwanghae Province of spell dist Taken to: Phungsan county, South Hamgyong Province Taken to: Chonghak-ri, Kyonghung county, 1891 :ni nakaT North Hamgyong Prayince M. Seathle 7. Pak Pok I Taken in: 1942 Birth place: Jinju, South Kyongsang Province

Age: 67 (Born on June 20, 1926) Present address: Honam-ri, Simpho city, no mod) 00 199A. Birth place: R sonivor Province Phyongan Province Present address: Chilgol-3-dong, MangyornswisT:of inskT Taken in: May 1943 Taken in: September 1941.

Age: 70 (Born on November 5, 1922) 13. Jong Song Myong Birth place: Tongdaemun-gu, Seoul Present address: Migok-ri, Sariwon city, North Hwanghae Province Taken to: Shanghai and Singapore moves 19981q daile value Taken in: Autumn 1940

9. Ro Hyon Hwa

Age: 70 (Born on October 25, 1922)
Birth place: Jisa-ri, Ryonggang county, South Phyongan Province
Present address: Aewon-ri, Ryonggang county, Nampho city
Taken to: Mudanjiang, China
Taken in: October 1940

Taxen to The then there Manchuria

th Hamgyong Province

Present address Search Packgun-myon, Kimic sus nux mix .01

Age: 70 (Born on August 25, 1923)

Birth place: Hadan-ri, Wihwa-myon, Uiju county,
North Phyongan Province

Present address: Taephyong-ri, Phihyon county,
North Phyongan Province

Taken to: Fengtian (Shenyang), China

Taken in: 1938

11. Kim Yong Sil

Age: 68 (Born on October 21, 1924)

Birth place: Pochon county, Ryanggang Province

Present address: Sinjang-ri, Hyesan city, Ryanggang Province

Taken to: Chonghak-ri, Kyonghung county,

North Hamgyong Province

Taken in: 1942

12. Jang Su Wol

You Kyong As

Age: 69 (Born on March 20, 1924)
Birth place: Ripsok-ri, Anju county, South Phyongan Province
Present address: Chilgol-3-dong, Mangyongdae District,
Pyongyang

Birth place: Jinju, South Kyongseng Province

Age: 70 (Born on November 5, 1922)

8. Ri Hyon Suk

Taken to: Qiqihar, China Taken in: September 1941

13. Jong Song Myong

Birth place: Tongdaemun-gu, Seoul Present address: Migok- (4991 ,01 tsuguA no nrod) 60 :sgA ovince Birth place: Myongsok-dong, Wonsan city, Kangwon Province Present address: Pongsu-dong, Wonsan city, Kwangwon Province Taken to: Burma

Taken in: August 1943 ondatus in-swdgmos wonld dlii8

Present address Yangsa-dong, Haeju city, sul gnoy gna .11. South Hwanghae Province

Age: 72 (Born on January 30, 1921) required of the trade of Birth place: Samdo-myon, Raju county, South Jolla Province Present address: Wolhyon-ri, Unjon county,

North Phyongan Province

Taken to: Jinzhou, China Taken in: 1942

Present address: Jukehon-ra Pyoksong county, ville Pok Sil ville Pok Sil ville Pyoksong county, ville Pok Sil vill Age: 71 (Born on April 15, 1922) Management of notest.

Birth place: Kyogu-dong,, Nam District, Pyongyang

Present address: Unjon county township,

North Phyongan Province

Taken to: Hulin, Mudanjiang Province, China

Taken in: 1941

16. Choe Sun Hwan

Age: 71 (Born on September 5, 1921)

Birth place: Ronam-dong, Seoul

Present address: Miphyong-ri, Thongchon county,

Kangwon Province

Taken to: Laoheishan, Heilongjiang Province, China

Taken in: June 1942

Present address: Ryongyon-dong, Anju dily, Ok gnoyd mis. 11

Taken to: Soviet-Manchurian border area and Taiwan
Taken in: 1940

White the state of the state

North Hwanghae Province Total Hard

- 34 -

18. Kim Jong Sim Mandand January Washington January Williams Present address: Pongsuillong, Wongiel cityu Kwangwop Province Age: 67 (Born in 1926) Birth place: Songhwa-ri, Sukchon county, South Phyongan Province Present address: Yangsa-dong, Haeju city, Aug gooy gook All South Hwanghae Province Taken to: the Philippines Pl (02 vigure L 30 mod) 27 mod Birth place: Samdo-myon, Raju county a Soc 1941; ni nakT ce Present address: Wolhyon-ri, Union countyodotoO mi makaT 19. Ri Kye Wol Age: 71 (Born in 1922) Birth place: Haeju city, South Hwanghae Province South Hwanghae Province Taken to: Shanghai, China (con at the Ambumod) 17 :29A Birth place: Kyogordong Nam Distriction vo 2401; in nakT Present address: Union county township, naitgood jut nakal North Phyongan Province 88 hold nol Age: 68 (Born on July 15, 1925) Birth place: Hupho-dong, Nampho city Present address: Songdok-ri, Hwaphyong county, Jagang Province Taken to: Singapore Taken in: 1941 Sinjagted legandered in mod) 47 bayAve Birth place: Ronam-dong Sedunovi, Kyongbergeneb-manon :soale niril Present address: Minbyonger Thomashard Thomashard and Install Age: 72 (Born on March 16, 1921) Birth place: Ryulsan-ri, Anju-myon, Anju county, South Phyongan Province Present address: Ryongyon-dong, Anju city, AO gnovila mil 71 South Phyongan Province Taken to: Proximity of Beijing, China and the same Birth place: Chongjin city, North Hampyon 7891; ni nakaT Present address: Wonsan-ri, Hoervong delty tadipiQ of reshart North Hamgvong Province and min no in Age: 74 (Born on October 4, 1918) Birth place: Poksu-ri, Phyongsan county, North Hwanghae Province

Present address: Phangyo county township, Kangwon Province Taken to: Harbin, China Taken in: April 1942

23. Kim Jong Hui

Age: 73 (Born in 1920) Birth place: Rinsan ciunty, North Hwanghae Province Present address: Sohung County, North Hwanghae Province Taken to: Hunchun, China Vinuo manifi zasibba Juwara Taken in: 1940 and word as darks will disold Taken to: Yenji county, Chang I see to T seather insent

24. Kim Chun Ok

29. Kim Jong Hun Age: 70 (Born on February 10, 1923) Birth place: Yangdok county, South Phyongan Province Present address: Tangsang-2-dong, Mangyongdae District, Taken to: Okinawa, Japan Another Taken to: Okinawa, Japan

Taken in: 1941 Transport burgung with almost Present address: Phan and China and Control of the Control of the

25. Kim Pok Sun

30. Won Ryong Hwa Age: 74 (Born on February 17, 1919) Birth place: North Jolla Province Present address: Pugo-ri, Chongam district, Chongjin city, Taken to: Mokpho, South Jolla Province, Korea and Yenji county, China China Taken in: 1933 Palar Pharman Strain China

26. Hwang Son Ok

Rich Kim Tok Sun W Judmall garant Age: 69 (Born on May 6, 1924) Birth place: Osin-ri, Chongdo county, North Kyongsang Province Present address: Ryongnam-ri, Waudo District, Nampho city Taken to: Xinjing (now Changchun), the then Manchuria Taken in: Autumn 1941

32, Ri Won

27. Kim Yong Suk (Real name Kim Kuk Sun)

Age: 66 (Born on January 24, 1927) Birth place: Hakpong-ri, Thaechon county, 18 39/ Someth Phyongan Province of Seconds Installed

Present address: Jungdaedu-dong, Hanggu district, Nampho city

Taken to: Shenyang, China

Taken in: 1939

28. Ri Chun Hwa

Age: 74 (Born in 1919) History country and the Birth place: Rimsan charles and the Birth place of the Birth

Birth place: Sindang-ri, Sohung county, North Hwanghae Province

24. Kim Chun Ok

25. Kim Pok Sun

Present address: Rinsan county township, and and a selection of the select North Hwanghae Province and make T

Taken to: Yenji county, China

Taken in: July 1940

Age: 70 (Born on february 10; 1923) death on most of the same of t

Birth place: Yangdok county, South Phyongan Province Age: 68 (Born in 1925) photo canal age Target and Age: 68

Birth place: Ryukkyo-1-dong, Hyongjesan district, Pyongyang

Birth place: North Jolla Province

27. Kim Yong Suk (Real name Kim Kuk Sun)

26. Hwang Son Okomo and doverna

Present address: Yangsa-dong, Haeju city, and on nexter South Hwanghae Province

Taken to: China Taken in: 1942

Won Ryong Hwa Some (Q101 71 granded no myo8) 45 can Avince

Age: 78 (Born in 1915)

Present address; Pugo-ri, Chonga Birth place: Hupho-dong, Nampho city

Present address: Taeryong-ri, Pongchon county, South Hwanghae Province For in notation

Taken to: Qiqihaer, China

Taken in: November 1933

31. Kim Tok Sun

Age: 69 (Born on August 11, 1924)
Birth place: Seoul

Present address: Ryangdok-ri, Jasong county, Jagang Province

Taken to: Singapore

Taken in: 1943

Age: 66 (Born on January 24, 1927) 19 in make the Age: 81 (Born in 1912) and and an analysis of the Birth place: Hakpong-in-Thauchan (1912)

Birth place: Sinsang-ri, Sinsang county. South Hamgyong Province

Present address: Kumok-ri, Sungho district, Pyongyang

Taken to: Singapore

Taken in: summer 1942 and us gad and well credit whents and Yun Chan Son, all between 10 to ide A Japanese carsying a sword and a rifle escented us, Hacking us whenever we cried and how and a rifle escented us, Hacking us whenever we cried and how and hacking us whenever we cried and hacking us whenever we come and hacking us whenever we cried and hacking us whenever we come and hacking us whenever we can be a supplied to the company of the c

Age: 66 (Born in 1927)
Birth place: Tongdaemun-gu, Seoul
Present address: Tongbuk-1-dong, Ryongsong district,

Pyongyang

Taken to: Northeast of China votadw bib tud show Jon bib I do like bringing him washing water, washing his 2401 ;ni nakaT.

34. Choe Pong Son

Japs. They confined a girl in room which (1925) and refers.

Birth place: Tochong-ri, Unsan county, North Phyongan Province

Present address: Phalchong-ri, Taedong county,

In some base sparage South Phyongan Province 02 agree of beil I

Taken to: Heilongjiang Province, China & Jasel and and Archange

Taken in: 1938

2. 17 Public Testimonies of bolodo bad alluoni

A girl did not listen well to a Jap. And he forced his penis into her

Kim Ki Bok (18) from Kvongsang Province ideisted Japs as she co-Ri Kyong Saeng, 76 years old, Former "Comfort Woman for the Japadric gole the whole night. The following "ymrA seemy ordered alle of been red by Wonchon-ri, Taedong County, South Phyongan tol au threatening that they should kill as as NAQO ,sonivora e disobeyed them, While serving I saw lour girls killed by the Japs.

where the Japanese troops rever girling with body with a nearly river, appeal as the Japanese throwing her body with a nearly river. My parents died of disease in 1920 when I was three years old. Even my grandmother who looked after me died in 1923 when I was took out my fetus and cut it to pieces and threvagged a small ban 6 gouged out my womb to make me not pregnant again. At 8 I began to take care of a landlord's children. One day, when I was 12 years old, the landlord named Jong Ho and my village head urged me to go to the Japanese who had promised to take me to a good factory.

- 38 -

I went out of the gate to see a lorry. I got on it. Four girls were already there. They were Jong Su Pong, Jong Kwang Son, Pak Su Pok and Yun Chun Son, all between 10 to 11. A Japanese carrying a sword and a rifle escorted us, kicking us whenever we cried.

We arrived at a factory in Changwon County, Kyongsang Province, which produced powder and other war supplies. Over 20 girls were there.

My first job was to wait on a Japanese officer. We were served with a small ball of boiled bean and barley for each meal.

I did not work but did whatever the Japanese officer told me to do like bringing him washing water, washing his feet and cutting his toenails.

Several months later I was forced to serve as a comfort girl for Japs. They confined a girl in room which was about two square meters. My room was No. 8.

I had to serve 20 Japanese soldiers on daily average and more on Sundays. The Japs beat and stabbed the comfort girls whenever the latter cried with pain.

While serving I saw four girls killed by the Japs.

A girl did not listen well to a Jap. And he forced his penis into her mouth and choked her to death.

Kim Ki Bok (18) from Kyongsang Province resisted Japs as she could not tolerate her nonstop service. The Japs kept her hung from an electric pole the whole night. The following morning they ordered all of us to the electric pole. Then they dismembered her and cut off her head, threatening that they should kill us as they did her if we disobeyed them, before throwing her body into a nearby river.

I was pregnant at the age of 16. The Japs cut open my belly and took out my fetus and cut it to pieces and threw it into a river. And they gouged out my womb to make me not pregnant again.

To escape from this living hell I tried to get wine and side dishes for it. Finally I prepared three bottles of wine and three packets of side dishes for it, with which I got a sentry dead drunk. And I dug a hole under the barbed wire and succeeded in escaping in September 1933.

The Japs are the sworn enemy of the Korean people and savages with whom we cannot live together on this planet. The Japanese with whom we cannot live together on this planet.

The Japs must unconditionally apologize and compensate for their atrocious crimes.

I cannot understand how Japan has been able to go unpunished so far. I bould unblade nove aget add subsembly ground there has a subsembly ground the same to be a subsembly ground the same to go unpunished so far.

Kim Tae II, 76 years old, Former "Comfort Girl For the Japanese Army"

Kaesong city, DPRK and and an analysis of the Japanese Army"

I was born in Sariwon, North Hwanghae Province on October 15, 1916. My family consisted of 7— my father, my mother, a brother, three younger sisters and me.

of rice to a rich family as a servant. A few years later, I was sold again to a textile mill run by a Japanese.

In 1932, when I was 16, I was sold to the "Tennoji Hospital" in Osaka, Japan and worked there.

One evening in 1934, when I was 18, the director of the hospital raped me like a beast. Afraid that his crime would be exposed he had my name on the list of the "comfort girls" for the Tokyo 12th Division of the Japanese Army. And I became a sex slave for the soldiers of the division.

I was taken first to Changchun, China. There was a service club, where the Japanese troops were stationed and they used a board house as a service club. A room was a tatami (Japanese mat) wide. Over 100 "comfort girls" were serving Japanese soldiers there and all of them were Koreans.

When I was taken there they gave me a Japanese name and called me "Ishikawa Sujie", instead of my Korean name, or they called me No.

12, which was my room number to sell but sould be regard the mile of roof

Early in the morning all the "comfort girls" were forced to bow to the direction of the Imperial palace in the yard of the "service club".

dishes for it, with which I got a sentry dead drupt. And I dug as held

We "comfort girls" ate a ball of barley and a piece of salted radish for meal. From 6 a.m. until 2 a.m. the next day each of us had to serve 30-40 Japanese officers and soldiers every day on average.

The Japanese officers and soldiers often pounced upon "comfort girls" like a pack of wolves. Sometimes two or three Japs turned up at once and fought among themselves like dogs even shedding blood, to be the first to gratify their sexual lust.

Even old officers, such as battalion commander Akizawa of the 12th Division and the Deputy Commander of the Division came to satisfy their carnal lust.

Unable to stand pain and disgrace, I once tried to hang myself but failed as I was discovered by the Japanese. One of the Japs brought his sword to my neck and threatened to kill me. And I protested to him, shouting, "I am a Korean woman. Why should we serve you for this disgusting war?"

A Japanese officer present there heaped insults upon me saying that Korean women were not human beings. After that they herded more men into my room.

After 3 years of service in Changchun, I was taken to Harbin, Shanghai, Nanjing, Guizhou, Guangzhou and Singapore.

The barbarities committed by the Japanese army against the "comfort girls" are too shocking to be spoken or written.

In Shanghai many Korean "comfort girls" died of contagious disease.

The Japanese army set fire to the houses for the patients and threw the corpses into rivers or left them uncovered in mountains.

My service in the 6th Division was very dreadful. This division was shock troops and its soldiers were so brutal that even when they came to the "service club" they carried unsheathed sharp swords in their hands.

A woman called "Hanako" from Pyongyang was pregnant. A Japanese called Tanaka drank heavily and went into her room. He knocked her down, kicked her belly mercilessly, ripped her abdomen open, took out her fetus and cut it to pieces. Then the rascal collected Korean "comfort girls." He took out her bowels with his sword and put them around the necks of the "comfort girls" and ordered them to lick the blood on the floor.

Many of them fainted and even some of them died of rupture of heart.

One day, this Tanaka came to my room with a dog. He set the dog on me, saying, "I have tasted her myself. Now you, too, taste her yourself." The dog sprang at me and bit me. I lost my consciousness and fell. Then he poured cold water on me and satisfied his fleshly lust madly. The Japanese barbarians even forced an anesthetic into my mouth and put gasoline-soaked cigarettes into mouth, nose and womb and lit them thus having those parts of my body burnt.

About 20 days before Japanese surrender the Japanese troops lined up over 150 "comfort girls" and beheaded them one by one. Only 3 women narrowly escaped death and were led by a Chinese to a Korean village. There they stayed about 20 days and greeted Korea's liberation on August 15, 1945.

comment in June last year that a Japanese magazine had said that the Korean women "served" the Japanese soldiers to earn money, distorting the historical fact.

At the comment I could not hold back my rising anger and made up my mind to open to the public my bitter past to expose the past crimes of the Japanese imperialists and emphasize that such crimes should never be allowed to be committed again against women of Korea and the rest of the world and to denounce the present Japanese Government's mean and cunning manoeuvre to embellish its past.

It is too brazen-faced and shameless for the Japanese magazine to allege that women had become "comfort girls" to earn money. Japan drafted Korean women as "comfort girls" and made them sex slaves and killed them indiscriminately. Has Japan ever "paid" for these crimes? We do not know about such a thing as yet. There are no women on earth who want to sell their youth and dignity for money and become sex slaves more miserable than animals.

A mere thought of my service as a "comfort girl" makes my blood run cold. On account of such a disgraceful service I still suffer from female disorder and heart disease and I faint quite often.

The Japanese imperialists completely deprived me of my youth and violated it and I have no remainder of my youth.

Although several decades have passed I can never forget the faces and names of those barbarians who committed such disgusting atrocities.

I can not pay off my old scars without the trial of those criminals.

Even if they are dead now, their corpses should be dug out to be judged by mankind.

Yun Kyong Ae, 73 years old, Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese Army", medi belooded but a long troined of the Japanese Unpha County, North Hwanghae Province, nestor a of Sunpha County, North Hwanghae Province, worth nome not stadily a son DPR of Korea was 182 modes because water and T. applily

I was born the second daughter in a poor farmer's family in Sanghae-ri, Samgang-myon, Jaeryong County, South Hwanghae Province, in 1920.

Korean women "served" the Japanese soldiers to earn money, distorting

My mother died when I was 6 years old and my father was a farm servant. I became a maid in the landlord's house and worked as a slave till 15. As I tried to run away the landlord sold me to a bar and from then onward I was sold from one place to another.

I worked in Sariwon and Nampho before going to Pyongyang in 1941. At that time strange Japanese men turned up in Pyongyang and collected work force especially young women. One of them said, "Their Imperial Army is gaining victories as the leader of Asia, and there have been offered good jobs for you."

He also said that we would get good food, fine clothing and a large sum of money. So I was taken to a "Labour Information" centre. There were many young women and I stayed there for about one month.

One day, some Japanese policemen who were armed, escorted the women who had ben collected from different parts to Pyongyang Station and they were made to leave for Pusan. When I arrived in Pusan, thousands of Korean girls around the age of 20 had assembled there. They came from all parts of Korea. I stayed there for about 10 days before being named "Kaneko", a Japanese name, and sent to board a warship with Japanese troops, tanks and guns.

All the women were boarded on seven warships. I was innocent and thought that they were taking us to Japan to give us the job of "nurses." But it was Singapore that the warships arrived in after 40 days of voyage.

The Japanese troops put Korean girls on hundreds of lorries and dropped them in tens in their barracks. I was taken to a deep valley called "Rasio" along with eight other women. There was an one-storied building, with reed-mats between the walls and with bamboo floors in the corridor. Each room had a small bed, I knew afterwards that one regiment of the Japanese Army stationed there.

A Japanese officer turned up one day, and bellowed that we should obey the Japanese Army, that it was our duty to "His Majesty the Emperor", and that those who did not obey would be killed. As he finished his speech Japanese soldiers lined our rooms. I was put in Room No 9.

Soldiers with red armbands described with the letter "leave" went into the rooms like a pack of dogs. In the daytime about 40 soldiers crept upon me, at night 5-6 officers. The women now realized that they had been disgraced and they resisted desperately.

One girl would not give up, so they bound her neck, arms and legs separately to 5 horses and pulled the beasts in different directions. Thus she was dead. Then they said to the other girls. "If you do not obey you'll be killed in the same way".

Those who were sick or undernourished were either thrown into the sea or burned to eath after being sprayed gasoline.

Four years had passed in such nightmare. We were dragged to the battlefields in Singapore and forced to misfortunes in trenches dripping with blood. Out of the nine girls, six died and three survived.

women who had ben collected from different parts to Pyongyang Station sum of money. So I was taken to a "Labour Information" centre: There

Then we were taken prisoners along with the defeated Japanese soldiers and were sent to a concentration camp to stay there for one and half years. After having suffered the bestial outrages by the Japanese we were forced to endure the POW's life with them.

I was invalid because of acute laryngitis which destroyed my voicing organ. Blood spilled from my nose and my mouth. I had become disfigured when I was still young.

I was ashamed to think that I should return home with such a bitter past, but still I longed for my homeland. Some of my friends cursed their fate and denied their return-home.

But I decided to return home before I would die there. It was in April 1947, two years later, that I arrived in Unpha County, after dropping in some countries.

of a mother feeding her children. O saw is that warmth a senagab and yedo

Whenever I look back on my bitter past, memories of thousands of Korean women who had been fated to the same life came to my mind.

Soldiers with red armbands described with the letter "leave" went

How can I describe the brutal crimes committed by the Japanese who occupied Korea, forced Koreans to slavery and plundered them of all their resources.

The matter of "comfort girl" alone is sufficient to condemn them forever. But the Japanese Government does not recognize its crimes and is even seeking to evade its compensation and apology.

The Japanese Government must act with prudence. How would wit be silent if it knew that their people were forced to massacre, sexual abuse and sexual slavery?

done in the past and pay compensation.

The whole world must put pressure on Japan and take sanctions against it so that they can never evade their responsibilities.

Ri Pok Nyo, 74 years old, Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese

Kukdong Workers' District, Hwasong County, North

I was born in 1919 in Puksu-ri, Suwon sub-county, Suwon county, Kyonggi Province. I lost my father as a child and had to earn my bread as I began to see things, yell but such sub-county as I began to see things.

I went in search of living to the Mudanjiang area in Northeast China, where in 1942, when I was 23 I was taken by the Japanese imperialist aggressor troops to a "comfort house." but the Japanese imperialist aggressor troops to a "comfort house." but the Japanese imperialist aggressor troops to a "comfort house." but the Japanese imperialist aggressor troops to a "comfort house." but the Japanese imperialist aggressor troops to a "comfort house."

I and other Korean women were put in freight wagons and trucks and sent to a deep mountain valley on the border between China and the former Soviet Union, which they called "Puza Valley." Inside the fence of double barbed wires hung with bells was a long one-storied house made of wood, and it was the "comfort house."

In the "comfort house" I was named "Harukko." I was put in the first room on the right side of the door. And the floor of the rooms was littered with straws and the walls between the rooms were formed by wooden boards, which reminded one of a pigsty.

I was forced to deal with Japanese soldiers who had holidays in turn once every week. I was given no rest. When I cried in resistance, an officer said, you must obey the demand of our 'Imperial Army', or you will be killed."

Everyday, from 30 to 35 men pounced on me and in the evenings I was raped by 8 to 10 officers. It was more than a hell.

I was not allowed to look in the next room since I was guarded by Japanese soldiers. They were cruel and bestial. They came in military uniforms wearing the red arm bands and holding swords in their hands.

They beat or killed anyone if she dared to resist or tried to run away. One day I contrived to run and they realized my intention. They heated the gongs in flame, which were used by the military band and put them to my thighs.

But I never gave up my scheme, the result was a dreadful torture, so my injuries were never healed.

Ri Pok Nvo. 74 years old. Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese

North Hamgyong Province, DPRK

My legs are still covered with the scars which had been left on my body since that time. Odna mound in the scars which had been left on my body since that time. Odna mound in the scars which had been left on my body since that time. Odna mound in the scars which had been left on my body since that time. Odna mound in the scars which had been left on my body since that time. Odna mound in the scars which had been left on my body since that time.

One day a group of soldiers came and they chose a woman who was 30 years old.

I went in search of living to the Mudanijang area in Northeast

I and other Korean women were put in freight wagons and trucks

When she resisted they called all the women in the "comfort house" outside to gather around a tree, and said that they would teach a "lesson" to the "beggars."

They hanged her upside down on a tree and beat her with their rifle butts, then they cut out her breasts and pushed their bayonet into her womb.

After she was dead, they shouted to us; "You Korean beggars, you will also be killed like her if you don't obey our 'Imperial Army.'" Many of the women fell in faint because of heart attack.

One day they brought a Chinese man they had caught and beheaded him. They put it in a boiling cauldron, and hooked it up on a long pole so that others could see it and they forced the Korean women to drink the water in the cauldron.

After the defeat of the Japanese imperialists I escaped death narrowly, but only five of the 20 Korean women survived.

was raped by 8 to 10 officers. It was more than a

Many years have passed since then, but I still remember clearly the faces of the Japanese soldiers who had done such shocking atrocities upon me. I can not forget the crimes perpetrated by them. we I man well

To them Korean women were less than the animals. The young women were disgraced and their souls distorted but some of them have survived to condemn the brazen-faced Japanese authorities who deny even apology and compensation.

come for the same reason, the boarded airtrain and soon realized that

They can never compensate for their outrages on human bodies and human rights whatever they may pay.

Can they return the lost souls and deprived youth of the women if they offer mountains of gold?

Only curses upon the Japanese Government!

Jang Su Wol, 69 years old, Formr "Comfort Girl for the Japanese Army";

d blow I Chilgol-3-dong, Mangyongdae District, Pyongyang, DPRK

I was born the second daughter in a tenant farmer's family in Rip-Sok-ri, Anju County, South Phyongan Province, on March 20, 1924.

I lived with my father, mother, an elder sister and a younger brother.

My father was unable to support his family with his labour and my family moved to Pyongyang in autumn 1931.

He worked at a wheat flour company where glutinous cakes were made. I worked from the age 14 to 17, at a west Pyongyang shoe factory where Japanese wooden shoes were produced.

After the thing was done, I was ordered to fasten the white cover-one day in September 1941, when I was 17, a Japanese foreman came to me and said that there was a good job and that if I took it I would receive three times as much money a month.

At that time, I had been plagued by the never-ending poverty in my family, and it did not make any difference whether I went to this or that factory, if I could earn much enough. So I followed him.

When I went to Pyongyang Station there were seven girls who had come for the same reason. We boarded a train and soon realized that some Japanese policemen were watching us.

deceived and I began to think of how I could run away but it was too late. It took several days for us to reach Qiqihar in China.

men were dispraced and their souls distorted but some of them have

There were already 15 Korean girls and put them altogether we had 22 members. We were taken to a "comfort house" which resembled a public toilet.

A room was barely enough for two persons and its floor was covered with Japanese straw-mats. Each room had its number and a girl's name was pasted on it.

The host of the "comfort house" said to me, "Your room is No 5 and your name is Terutso from today. You'll be killed if you speak Korean." I had thought that the building was a factory hostel and I would be employed at a factory there.

But now I realized that I was fooled, that I would never return home. I wept bitterly.

From the next day, soldiers of the "Imperial Army" came in line into my room. When I refused to take off my clothes they put a dagger about my neck and threatened to kill me before pouncing upon me.

I had to deal with 15-20 men a day; soldiers in the daytime and officers at night. On Sundays had to deal with as many as bestial soldiers and I had not even eaten lunch.

After the thing was done, I was ordered to fasten the white coverings around their legs. If I was clumsy for doing it I was beaten mercilessly. It is not been do been as any good tank bias but am of amaging

My meal was a lump of rolled-barley mixed with potato and salted cabbage and I ate the same meal for 4 years. They did not care for the periods.

Many years knied bewolfold o'Chalquone dourn mass bluos I li grobal

Japanese officer for my toileting and ran away. At that time, officers with higher ranks were privileged to take women to their rooms. I became free, but I did not know what people said about and where I was.

I had no money, nor food. I had to dig grass to eat and begged for food wandering from place to place. I roamed about in China when liberation came in Korea and it was through the offices of Koreans in northeast China that I came by train to Pyongyang where I met my parents, sister and younger brother.

My parents were shaken to see me and wept as never before. I had no courage to tell all my story, my shameful life.

I did not talk it to them and lived in tears behind them. I had been utterly disgraced by the Japanese, and how could beg mercy of Korean men, so I decided that I would live alone.

I am a woman, and I might have enjoyed a family life and its warmth. I am near 70 years of age. I would have lived with my sons, daughters, and grandchildren and receiving their respect and affection.

How greatly I envy the happy old woman who goes for a walk with her husband, with their grandchildren on Sundays or holidays. The Japanese deprived me of my youth and disgraced me.

I have become poor at hearing because of the mental and physical outrages done by the Japanese soldiers. My teeth are all false which prevents my digesting.

I was compelled to become a smoker at a young age, quite unusual for Korean women. How can the Japanese authorities deny the statements of the victims and their forced conscription of Korean women?

Is there any woman who would volunteer to go to such a place when there is no guarantee of her life and ruining her life? Are there any father or mother who want to send their loving children to such a place?

of If it were the Japanese girls, or if it were their parents, would they be willing to do so? The Japanese authorities are extremely imprudent.

From the beginning I had been deceived and then I was forced to distort my soul, it of gyawa nar the guilabet com rol destille seemagal.

I appeal to all the honest people over the world. I wish them to take strong measures so that our grievances are resolved and the Japanese government make compensation and apology.

I strongly demand that the Japanese government honestly admit its crimes, apologize to the Korean people and swear that they would never again commit such evil deeds.

lood wandering from place to place! forgemed about dat Chiras when

I shall never die before full apology is made. grow atmente viv

South Hwanghae Province, DPRK and believe to a nem Sayon-ri, Kangryong County, Sayon-ri, Kangryong County, Sayon-ri, Kangryong County, Sayon-ri, Kangryong Sayon-ri, Kangryong Sayon-ri, Kangryong Sayon-ri, Kangryong Sayon-ri, Kangryong Sayon-ri, Kangryong County, Sayon-ri, Kangryong Sayon-ri, Kangryong Sayon-ri, Kangryong Sayon-ri, Kangryong County, Sayon-ri, Kangryong Sayon-ri, Kangryong County, Sayon-ri, Kangryon-ri, Kangr

In 1934 when I was 14 years old, I was taken as "comfort woman for the Japanese army." At that time, my house was in Phabal-ri, Phungsan County. (Today's Phabal-ri, Kim Hyong Gwon County).

One day, while my parents were working at the field, the armed Japanese policemen came to me. They stuffed my mouth, put me on a truck and took me to the Phabal-ri Police Station.

After learning this fact, my parents rushed to the police station and urged them to release me. But the police beat my parents with their wooden swords, and kicked them, saying that they knew nothing about me.

Detained in the police cell, I was raped by five policemen. When I cried out, they stuffed rags in my mouth, with my legs bound up to a chair, began to violate me in turn.

So One month passed. One day I came to learn something from the words that passed between the policemen that many girls had already been to this police station and raped there before being taken away somewhere.

Later I was handed over to the Japanese army barracks near the police station. There were many girls at the age of 17-18. Before being handed over to the Japanese army they were kidnapped by the Phabal-ri, Police Station in Phungsan county. The army officer ordered us to gather, and said that each of us should deal with 50 garrison soldiers of the "Imperial army" every day.

Every day many visitors came. If girls cried out, rags were put into their mouths. When resistance continued, soldiers threatened them to kill by pointing the blade of dagger at their private parts. In this way my body was bruised and my legs got injured. One day 4 years later, eight Japanese officers appeared naked and started making lewd advances towards me.

After doing all manner of inhuman acts they thrust the haft of a dagger inside my private part. Unbearble, I bit them. They took me out and tortured me with water and hung me naked upside down from a horizontal bar. And then, they forced an iron club inside my mouth and whirled it round to break all my teeth.

Not satisfied with this, they placed my lips inside out and tattooed on them with stamp full of needles, and continued tattooing on my breasts, backs, legs, stomach and even on my private part. When I lost my consciousness, they threw me in the garbage dumy.

The physical pain was unbearable. I was more indignant at tattoos so that I cried out. Even today, the traves of tattoos remain in my body.

Because of these scars, I have been to public bathrooms and swimming pools like other people. Even in the hottest summer days, I could not wear a short-sleeve shirt.

Of course, such a tragedy is not confined to me alone. The "comfort woman" life forced by the Japs brought death as well as unbearable physical and mental agony to many Korean women.

Though many years have passed since then, physical and mental scars still remain. No matter how the Japanese Government may pay compensation, they can never wipe out the deep-rooted grudges and scars left in my heart and on my body and, moreover, the history of the crimes committed by the old Japanese government can never be concealed or erased.

The Japanese Governmen should abandon its crafty attempt to cover up and justify the monstrous crimes committed by its ancestors and should investigate the real state of affairs, make the results public and make sincere apology and compensation.

Pak Pok I, 67 years old, Former "Comfort Woman for the Japanese link of med Army", and analyses began began to a second and the second and th

vm vaw sid Honam-ri, Sinpho City, la raygab to shald add guitaioq yd body was bruised and myXAQQ sonivorQ gnovgmaH duoZ later, eight lapanese officers appeared ansed and latert making dawle advances

I was born on June 20, 1926 in Jinju, South Kyongsang Province.

One day when I was 17 years old, the village headman at Kaehwadong, Munsan, Jinju City, South Kyongsang Province told me that he would help me to go to Japan. Fallen into his trap, I left Pusan Port on May 2, 1943 and went to Simonoseki by ship. I saw about 50 girls aged under 15 to 17 there. Upon arrival at Simonoseki all of us were taken to an inn.

was taken to the harbour of Simonoseki again by truck.

We, 20 girls including me embarked on the ship "Kibi-maru." Some days later, we arrived in Taiwan and were taken to an inn under the signboard of "Kiru." At the inn 20 girls including me were selected and were taken by truck to the "Kikusairo" airforce barracks from Taichi Station. Within the barracks there was a comfort building under the signboard of "Kikusairo."

It was an one-storeyed building and each room was about 8 square metres wide. There was a bed with a sheet of blanket, two pillows and a water glass. Room No. 8 was allotted to me. I had to serve 5 to 6 Japanese pilots every day, and 10 sometimes.

A Japanese named Yamamoto Osika was in charge of the "comfort house" and there were five men under him. I saw the men receiving 2 yen (Japanese currency) per hour and handing them over to the chief. But we "comfort women" received no money.

When I refused to serve them, they beat me, saying: "Koreans must serve the Imperial Army." A soldier coiled a water snake around my neck to make me lose consciousness when I refused to serve him.

Those who attempted to escape were killed. I witnessed a Korean girl named Jang Sun who was captured while fleeing, beaten to death.

After going through such a wretched life, I came to Japan with the help of one of my relatives in May 1946 one year after the defeat of the Japanese imperialists. I returned to the motherland by the 17th repatriation ship in 1960.

More than 50 years have passed since then. But my wounded heart still remains unhealed. I can never forget my past even if I die.

Through the past atrocities committed by the Japanese imperialists and the attitude of the present Japanese Government which tries to evade responsibility, I think there is no difference between the old and present Japanese governments.

I saw some 1,000 Korean women there T had no idea about where they were from. We got into a large cargo ship loaded with wins! and

Ri Hyon Suk, 71 years old, Former "Comfort Woman for the Japanese Army",

The ship stopped at the island Rorivon City, busies of the boques quite of the boundary of the of a day labourer. My family was so poor that I could not attend the school though I reached 18th year. My only younger brother could not but enter other family as an adopted son.

One 1940 autumn day, when I was 18, a Japanese named Sigeichi appeared in my village and told me that he would find a good job for me. I was 18, a Japanese named Sigeichi appeared in my village and told me that he would find a good job for me.

Fallen into his trap, I went to Pusan. Hundreds of Korean girls of around twenty years were there. They said that they would work in a factory in Japan. Of the of head work and page that they would work in a factory in Japan.

I, together with them, was taken by boat to Simonoseki, Japan, where we stayed for some time.

One day, a girl in my next room bit at the face of halapanese sol-

During my stay there, I was forced to use the Japanese name "Fumiko". The same was the case with other girls.

Some days later, we were again taken to a village in the suburbs of Shanghai, China. Springer allow beruiges and only not good because

The girls learned that they had been deceived by the Japanese and cried, asking them to allow them to go home.

Japanese promised them to find good jobs if they acted as required by them.

by them.

By them would be the best of the bounded heart o

But what waited for us there was not a factory, but a "comfort house for the army." Then a humiliating life began. For about two years I served the Japanese army as a "comfort girl" in Shanghai. At dawn one day, we were ordered to gather at the harbour, with our things in our hands.

I saw some 1,000 Korean women there. I had no idea about where they were from. We got into a large cargo ship loaded with guns and tanks, as well as Japanese soldiers, which headed southward.

The ship stopped at the islands on the Pacific Ocean under Japanese occupation and in each island many girls were disembarked.

I was taken to a "comfort house" in Showatoori, Singapore. Nineteen girls including me were taken to a four-storeyed apartment under rigid surveillance.

There were 17 blocks of flats of such kind. All were comfort buildings. A room on the second floor was alloted to me. A wooden bed with two blankets was on the concrete floor. At that time, the Japanese soldiers were on weekly leave from the front once every week. Every day I had to serve 30 to 35 men.

On top of it, I was forced to serve 4 to 5 officers at night. The officers and soldiers of the Japanese army used to say to us: "Serving the Imperial Army of the Great Japanese Empire is the way of selfless devotion to the Emperor."

One day, a girl in my next room bit at the face of a Japanese soldier, enraged at his detestable act. Then several Japanese soldiers stormed into her room and took her out. She was never heard of again. It was known later that she was dragged into a forest and was gang-raped and beaten before she was killed.

Unable to overcome the mental and physical pain they had to suffer every day, many of them tried to escape and resisted desperately and some committed suicide.

A girl whose name was Ri on the first floor, died, hanging herself by the window. Once every week medical check-up was conducted. Those who were attacked by diseases were killed secretly.

At the time the Korean women were forced to lead secluded life with a strict ban on their contact. So I could learn these tragic events only after the defeat of Japanese imperialism. Out of 19 only six Korean women could survive after the war.

Four girls died of hunger and illness while wandering about the beach in Singapore on the way home. I and another girl alone could return hofe. After making a narrow escape from the jaw of death, I returned to Seoul. But my parents had already passed away.

I left Seoul out of disgrace to my past life, and settled in Songrim together with the girl who returned home together. There I got married, but I was unable to bear a child. Out of guilt I left my husband after four years. Since then I have been living alone.

Even now, the images of the numerous innocent Korean women who were drafted to an alien land to be deprived of their youth and murdered cruelly flash across my mind. Sometimes my sleep is troubled by their images.

It seems as if the souls of the women are urging us in an alien land many miles apart to revenge for them.

I think that both the old and present Japanese governments must stand international trial for their crimes.

The Japanese government must examine the situation squarely, make a thorough investigation into the criminal acts committed by its predecessors and make sincere apology and due compensations.

Ro Hyon Hwa, 70 years old, Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese Army" was known later that she was dragged into a forest and was gang-raped

Aewon-ri, Ryonggang County, Nampho City, DPRK

I was born on Otober 25, 1922, in Jisa-ri, Ryonggang County, South Phyongan Province.

My family consisted of parents and 4 daughters and I was the youngest. My father died when I was 5. My father was the only son. So we had no relatives. My mother and we, daughers worked hard, farming on a small plot of land and selling the straw bags we wove. But we could hardly emerge from poverty.

In October, 1940 when I was 18, a landlord whose nickname was Tolle came to my house together with a Japanese. I don't know him by name, and a landlord brank and a suppose worker a guidant self. alon names

He was in a black jacket and had his hair cut close. He said that he could provide a good job for me and asked my mother to send me with the Japanese. No sooner had my mother refused than the Japanese gave a hard kick on my mother's face, thus breaking two of her front teeth.

Then they forced me into a lorry and started for Pyongyang Railway Station. I was forcibly taken into a dimlylit wagon with 3 other Korean girls, the wagon which was used to carry military horses. There were more than 20 wagons. Every wagon was crowded with Korean girls. Some girls were crying and others were sitting absentmindedly. We could not know where we were going, for the doors of wiagon were locked from the outside.

At mealtime, a rice-ball was provided to each girl through small windows. In our wagon, most of the girls were aged between 15 and 16. Three or four days passed and the train reached Mudanjiang, China. From there we were taken to Japanese barracks which were over 4 kilometres away.

I stepped into a 2-storeyed building with 3 other Korean girls who had come with me from Pyongyang Railway Station. Two girls, called Myong Ok (17) and Pong Nyo (17) were from Nampho and a girl called Hak Sil (16) was from Pyongyang.

There were 4 rooms on the ground floor. Each of us was allotted to a room. When we stepped in, the rooms were locked from the outside. Each room was 2-5 metres wide and 3 metres long. The floor was covered with wooden boards. When I looked out of the window, I could find another building just across from ours. Many Korean girls were seen going in and out. It was towards the evening that we arrived at our destination.

That night a Japanese officer with yellow shoulder straps came into my room, wearing a sword at his side. He said to me "be absolutely obedient to the Japanese officers from now on. This is the way of faithfully obeying the orders of the Japanese Emperor. Korean women must die if they do not want to be obedient to us." Then he sprang at me.

I resisted, taking his hand between my teeth. He also sank his teeth into the forefinger of my left hand, thus making a knuckle out of order. I continued to resist him. He wrenched my arms and tied them behind. Then he made me kneel down and beat me, kicking the upper part of my thigh with his boots mercilessly.

how many soldiers came to my room that night. I regained consciousness at dawn and found that I lay with my arms tied behind. I was forced to serve Japanese soldiers from about eight o'clock in the evening to dawn every day

Myong Ok's room was next to mine and Pong Nyo's was next to her. They were also forced to serve the soldiers like me. Blood oozed from the torn genitals of Pong Nyo. So every night she groaned with pain, crying for help.

Officers alone came into the rooms of us four girls. Every night 10 to 15 officers and, sometimes, as many as 20 officers came to each of our rooms.

Each of them remained in our rooms for 30 to 40 minutes on average and if they go out earlier we had to serve more persons. At the bath and meal times we were always followed by armed guards or were under close surveillance. We were not allowed to look each other in the face or chat with each other.

23

Our meal consisted of a ball of boiled barley and rice and some of salted redish, most basked area and baggate aw nad with the salted redish.

Japanese coats shaped like a Korean topcoat. When the time of "service" came they even took these coats away. We could not change our clothes even once in three years.

There was a small window on the door of each room. Some officers were delighted to the scene of Korean girls being raped. If we girls resisted or refused to obey they dragged us out of the rooms and whipped us up with leather and even broke our ribs with the back of their swords.

After the defeat of the Japense imperialists, their troops took to flight. I received 2 won from a Korean living nearby for my traveling expenses and returned to my hometown. Because of my shameful past I lived single for over 10 years before I became a man's second wife but I could not give birth to a baby.

Owing to the aftereffects of a disease I got in those days my waist, legs, fingers do not work properly today, thus causing me to suffer physical pain at all times. Whenever I think of my youth deprived by Japanese imperialist aggressors, I can hardly allay my resentment. I cannot die before I clear my deep-rooted rancour against the Japanese who made it impossible for me to enjoy my youthful days, my love and happiness as a woman.

No matter how much the Japanese Government may make compensation my youthful days and love will never come again. Nevertheless, the Japanese government is trying its hardest to shirk responsibility until today from making a sincere apology and due compensation for the victims.

We must settle the deep-seated, bitter grudge that remain in the hearts of numerous Korean women who were drafted as "comfort girls" and died unobserved.

The Japanese Government must give up its shameless acts and make a clear apology and a due compensation for the crimes the former Japanese Government committed against the Korean people.

Kim Kun Suk, 70 years old, Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese Army",

Parities Annual Taephyong-ri, Phihyon County, and paid and and noise North Pyongan Province was an and and and

Before the country's liberation I was taken away as a "comfort girl" for the Japanese imperialist aggressor army and had to suffer indelible disgrace. But until now when I am 70 years old I could not satisfy my deep-seated grudge against the Japanese.

Hearing of "results of investigation" made public by the Japanese Government and of some distorted articles printed in some Japanese publications with regard to the issue of "comfort girls for the Japanese army" I could not remain silent any longer, and decided to lay bare all the facts I had experienced and had seen with own eyes.

In the "results of investigation" the Japanese Government said that it "could not ascertain" through what channels and how many women were drafted as "comfort girls" in Korea at that time. What a cheek it has got!

Before liberation the Japanese government and military authorities took away numerous Korean women in a planned way.

At that time I was attending school in Seoul. One day in August 1938 I went to a park in the city to play together with my schoolmates Kyong Suk and Yong Ja and we became a target of "girl hunting" by the Japs.

Three Japanese pounced upon us and forcibly took us to the railway station. Then we were forced to get aboard a wagon where we found over 100 girls. Only then we realized that we were caught in a net of "girl hunting" and cried, writhing in a desperate agony, but it was in vain.

The Japanese soldiers locked the wagon from the outside and took us as far as Pusan. We could see a lot of drafted women who had arrived there earlier than us. All of us were treated like criminals. Again we were forced to get aboard ship and then train to be taken to Shenyang (the then Fengtian of Manchuria) of China. gologa mala a share

The city seemed to be gathering place of "comfort girls" for we found there hundrds of drafted Korean women.

The distressing scene I witnessed brought me the poignant realization that this girl hunting was done intentionally by the Japanese government and military authorities not by a few scoundrels. As soon as we got to the "comfort house", we were deprived of our Korean names and were forced to be called in Japanese names.

In addition, we were stripped off Korean clothes and were coerced to wear Japanese clothes. I fell a victim to the Japanese army, with my virginal purity violated ruthlessly, like the other drafted girls.

However, it is said that a manager of a Japanese magazine has insulted us Korean women, saying that we became "comfort girls" of our own accord to earn money." Through this alone we can see how brazen-faced the present Japanese rulers and the publications on the payroll of the Japanese government are.

If we had become "comfort girls" voluntarily, why did we weep aloud, bumping our heads against the wall of wagons and the pillars of the freight vessel?

If it was "a fortune-making job," why did the Japanese not send their own daughters?

The mere thought of the sufferings I had to undergo in the "comfort house" makes me shudder even today although many years have passed.

Every day dozen of brutal Japanese soldiers pounced upon me and mercilessly trampled down my youthful spirit and body in a shabby "house" whose rooms were walled up with thin boards like sheds for cattle. What a shame that I was subjected to humiliation as their sexual slave.

But more mortifying and more unforgettable is that a large number of innocent Korean women were killed cruelly after they had been totally trampled down by the Japanese soldiers.

One day, I heard a scream for help coming from the yard and rushed out. Yong Ja in the next room who come from Seoul with me was lying on the ground, shedding blood, with her legs and arms tied tightly. At the sight of her breast cut off and her left arm chopped I fainted.

while, and saw Japanese soldiers dragging her out although she was still alive.

life that was forced upon by the Japanese imperialists. I thave no called me recklessly on the head, on the shoulders and on the back with the back of their swords.

to drink a mouthful of water and it was 3 days later that I was released. I heard nothing of Yong Ja who had been dragged away several days before. Pak Kyong Suk, who had come from Seoul with me was also killed by Japanese soldiers later.

Japanese soldiers made the Korean women their sex slaves and killed them at random at any time and any place. But they got off scot-free. Because the "comfort houses", as Japanese soldiers said, were run by order of the Japanese government and military authorities.

Later, I got rid of that devilish den with difficulty and wandered from place to place. In the course of this I had a chance to see brothels run by vice racketeers but nowhere could I found guards and wire entanglements as in the "comfort houses."

It was not some vice racketeers but the then Japanese authorities that perpetrated indelible crimes against the "comfort girls" in an organized manner as an idea against the could provide a good job for me an idea and the could be a compared with Although I had no idea about such a lab.

However, the Japanese authorities tried to shirk responsibility on to the vice racketeers and a newspaper on the payroll of the government said that it was "absurd when viewed from the feeling of the Japanese side."

How can they utter such words impudently if they are not lunatic?

Even now, though belated, the Japanese Government must pay due attention to the cries full of rancour uttered by those Korean women who left this world with their youth deprived of and by those who are survivors of the former "comfort girls." Moreover, it must honestly reflect on its shameful past and make due compensation for them.

Owing to the aftereffect of the disgraceful life as "comfort girl" life that was forced upon by the Japanese imperialists, I have no child and am supported by my nephew and I am now an old woman already at the age of seventies.

I am determined to devote the rest of my life to satisfy the grudge of the Korean women who were killed cruelly by the Japanese.

Kim Yong Sil, 69 years old, Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese oels land of Ryanggang Province, DPRK was also provided bread I

I was born in Pochon County, Ryanggang Province, on October 21, 1924.

usulted us Korean women, saying that well englished beamson used belief

My family consisted of my parents and 5 children (2 sons and 3 daughters.) My mother had to support the family, for my father was always ill in bed. Our family was very poor.

My family was so badly off that my parents sent me to my aunt at Hoeryong. But, it was after the death of my aunt that I arrived there. So I had to go about begging and did errands for other people to earn my bread.

no litewas more some vice racketeers but the then lananese atthorities

One day when I was 18, a Japanese in western clothes approached me and said that he could provide a good job for me and asked me to follow him. Although I had no idea about such a job, I followed him, thinking that the job would be better than going about begging. When I got to the place I found dozens of girls of my age.

Carried by a lorry, we were brought to Hoeryong railway station. We took a train and got off at Chonghak-dong, Kyonghung County, North Hamgyong Province (now Undok County.) From there we were again carried by a lorry to reach a deep valley.

More than 10 girls aged between 17 and 18 were already there. Japanese soldiers took us to a board-framed house and ordered everyone of us to go into each room.

The house was the "comfort house," with each room walled up with straw bags and boards, and voices from the adjacent room were heard clearly. It was the straw bags and boards and mass often mind tid 1 mark.

From that day I was called in Japanese name, "Eiko." The man entered my room was one of those who had taken us to the place. Formerly he had been in western clothes, but now he was in military uniform with the shoulder strap of lieutenant. He was the first to rape me.

Then 7 other officers satisfied their lusts in turns. From the next day, I was forced to serve 20 to 30 officers and men a day.

On Sundays 40 to 50 soldiers pounced upon me to satisfy their sexual desire. We always felt hungry, for we were given nothing but only small barley food balls and some soup.

A remote mountain village called Hongyi was not far from our "comfort house" and we were often forced to go out to serve those Japanese soldiers who were stationed somewhere about the village. There were 3 army posts in the area, but Hongyi village alone had no "comfort house."

That was why we were ordered to go there for service. We underwent medical check-up once a week. Anyone who was considered to be unfit for sex service because of illness was taken away and a new "comfort girl" would take her place.

I was forced to serve Japanese soldiers from 9 o'clock in the morning till late at night. Sometimes, I was forced to serve until dawn for several days. One day a girl, named "Tokiko," was caught by an officer, for she had spoken in Korean. We were ordered to assemble in the field. Then the officer cut off her head with his sword in front of us.

Terribly frightened, we ran away, weeping aloud. When a girl, named "Junko," was delivered of baby, Japanese soldiers whispered to each other and took her away. Since then, we heard nothing from her.

Several girls took their own lives by hanging themselves, unable to endure any longer their disgraceful life as "comfort girls." One Sunday, I refused to serve an officer because I was sick. Then he sat upon me, grasped my hair and bumped my head against the floor several times of believe more dose than a took of a several times.

straw bags and boards, and voice from the adjacent room were heard

When I bit him in the arm he shook it off and my two teeth were broken. The following day, several soldiers pounced upon me and poured water into my nostril. As soon as my stomach swelled they put a board on it and pressed it hard with their feet. Whenever I came to my sense, they repeated the same action.

On August 13, 1945, a Japanese officer ordered us to get ready to go to Japan with them. We all gathered, discussed how to run away and decided to escape one by one. I was the first to flee. Up to the present I have not met any other girls nor have I heard anything from them.

Afraid of the exposure of disgrace and ashamed of my past, I made up my mind not to get married.

I appeal to all the men of conscience the world over to give me strength so that I can lay bare the cruel atrocities perpetrated by the Japanese army before the people of the whole world and give full vent to my deep-rooted enmity.

Jong Song Myong, 69 years old, Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese Army", Pongsu-dong, Wonsan City,

Kangwon Province, DPRK

I was born in Wonsan, Kangwon Province, Korea. My family consisted of my father and mother, two younger brothers and two younger sisters and myself. I was the eldest daughter. My father passed away when I was 12 and my mother had to feed five mouths, so we barely kept alive.

Toward the end of August 1943, when I was 19, a Japanese named Maeda, approached me and said: "If you join the 'Teishintai' (Voluntary Corps) and work for six months you can make a lot of money." So, I got on train in Wonsan to Mokhpo together with 8 other girls.

But the place we arrived at was not Mokpho but Pusan. There I was detained for 2 days and was handed over to another Japanese. Thus I was forced to get on board a ship at Pusan port together with more than 400 girls and go to Singapore via Taiwan.

The Japanese soldiers made half of the girls get off the ship at the port of Singapore. All other girls, including me boarded another ship to Rangoon, Burma.

After our arrival in Rangoon, I together with 19 other girls, was carried by lorry only at night for two or three days to reach a village called "Meiktila." The Japanese military unit stationed where we had been taken was called "Sanbocho Regiment 33."

The formal name of our "comfort house" was the "Meiktila comfort house", and Japanese lieutenant Nakamura, aged about 33, was in charge of it.

The "comfort house" was made up of two buildings, with some space between them.

Each had 10 rooms which were partitioned by bamboo-mats. Each room was only 2 square metres and could hardly accommodate two persons in the room. There were only a straw mattress and blanket.

Visible on the outer wall of my room was a plate bearing my Japanese name, "Kinue" instead of my Korean name. I was forced to take off my Korean clothes and to wear Japanese style "Kantaku", and was forbidden to speak Korean.

After I entered room, I could not get out of it freely, because a soldier was on guard outdoors.

On the day of my arrival there, the aide-de-camp of the Regimental Commander entered my room. business in the second of the Regimental Commander entered my room. business of beginning as without a raise and the second of the Regimental Commander and the second of the se

Then he stripped me naked abruptly and satisfied his carnal desire despite of my desperate resistance. If we refused to comply with the demand of Japanese bastards, they would mercilessly torture us.

One evening I did not feel well and was so exhausted that I told the aide-de-camp of the Regimental Commander not to step in.

The bastard kicked the door open, unsheathing his sword, threw me to the ground, seated himself on me and threatened to kill me. In defiance of his threat, I made a protest, shouting: "It makes no difference whether I die today or tomorrow. Kill me if you want."

He pulled me up and stripped me off and lashed me with a horsewhip brutally. As I fell senseless, he satisfied his carnal desire.

I barely managed to come to myself as my colleagues attended on me. But such thing happened repeatedly. The same might be said of the other girls.

I had to serve non-commissioned officers and soldiers in the morning and at noon and officers from 8 o'clock in the evening until the hour of rising the following day.

We had to serve 20 to 25 soldiers a day and 30 to 40 soldiers on Sundays, was made up of two didings, was made up of two didings, was made up of two didings and soldiers.

We underwent medical check-up once a week, but we were given no treatment even if we were taken ill. A woman who was with us died of malaria without receiving any proper medical treatment, although she was seriously ill for three months. Japs threw her body into Irrawaddy river instead of burying her corpse.

One night toward the end of the War, the Japanese soldiers fled secretly leaving no food behind and deserting us Korean women.

was forbidden to speak Korean.

We 19 "comfort girls" strayed aimlessly through jungles, barely keeping alive with the aid of herb roots. At night we threw ourselves into each other's arms, full of fear, and wept over and over again, calling our mothers.

After a month we arrived in Thailand with difficulty. 6 months later, that is in 1947 we returned to our native towns aboard a ship to our homeland. After my return to my home town I met my mother and my younger brothers and sisters whom I had longed to see so much but I could not tell them about my disgraceful life as a "comfort girl." So I told a lie that I had been a nurse before my return home. My mother was very pleased without knowing the truth, saying that it was extremely fortunate that I was back from abroad alive.

But, this happiness did not last long, for I did not want to marry. My mother pressed me for an explanation of my refusal of marriage and scolded me angrily, but I could not tell her the reason. My mother remained regretful for my resolve until her death.

My neighbours also said that there was something strange about me. As a woman I also had an impulse to love and be loved in return. Like the other women, I also wanted to enjoy the happiness of a mother who makes a home, gives birth to babies and brings them up.

But, I thought that if I got married my husband would be aware of my past and desert me and that if he deserted me, my disgrace would be exposed fully. That is why I decided not to be married.

When I turned 40 years of age, I had to have my uterus removed completely owing to the aftereffects of my disgraceful life as a "comfort girl."

Many years have passed, but I can never forget the abominable things that happened in those days. I hate bitterly the Japanese who have deprived me of my youth and of everything valuable in my life. But I could not take courage to indict them.

I had been in agony at the thought that if the people knew my past how they would think of me. But after I saw former Korean "comfort girls" testifying the truth through TV and newspapers, I also made a courageous decision to indict them. I have nothing to fear, for I have neither husband nor child.

Speaking out my mind full of inveterate grudge, I would like to appeal to all the honest-minded people the world over to help me pay off my old scars and to drag the main culprits into court.

Nearly half a century has passed since the end of the War. But the Japanese Government is still unwilling to admit its past crimes.

So I, joinning my voice in the voices of 200,000 other Korean women, demand that the Japanese Government make a thoroughgoing investigation into the truth behind the issue of "comfort girls for the Japanese army" as soon as possible, and make sincere apology and due compensation, pledging itself not to commit similar crimes again. at But this happiness did not just languidrab did not went to marry.

My matherspressed me for an explanation of any relusal of marriage and Kang Yong Suk, 72 years old, Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese mained regretful for my resolve until her death. "ymrA

He pulled Wolhyon-ri, Unjon County, and leabed the will a burse

Junda Santalle North Phyongan Province, DPRK amodalgian ey N. me. As a woman I also had an impulse to love and be loved in return.

I was born in Samdo-myon, Raju County, South Jolla Province, on January 30, 1921, and basics and daily special to basics and chair 1921, 1921, and the special spec

In 1933 when I was 12, I followed my parents to make a living in my past and desert me and that it he deserted me, my snid quoint he exposed dully. That is why I decided not to the marriedon is bus gui

Both of my parents died soon in China when I was still young. When I turned 40 years of age, I had to have my uterus removed

Later, I got married and lived with my husband in Dongxiangchao, Yanzhou city, China but in 1942 I was abducted and taken to Jinzhou by Japanese soldiers. many Many years baye passed, but I can never furget athemalominable

They confined me to a single room of the "comfort house" and forced me to serve at least 10 soldiers a day. We will be a be writing about 10 soldiers a day. But I could not take courage the indictablement tot ili visicities on one

Very often I would become unconsious and collapse. When I came to myself, I felt unbearably sharp pains all over my body. d bad I show they would think of me. But after beawdormer of cream efformfort

Whenever I refused to obey they beat and kicked me without any a courageous decision to indict them. I have nothing to lear, for lybram We 19 comfort girls, strayed all all blirlo non finadaud routien,

It was an everyday occurrence that I had my head and arms den Speaking out mysmindelall lafsiguelerate grudge. Is would behnuow appeal to all the honest-minded people the world over to help me pay

Unable to endure any longer I escaped from there in the autumn of 1944, and lived in a remote mountain village in northeast China until December 1945. Hearing the news that Korea was liberated, I came to Unjon County, North Phyongan Province in January 1946.

younger brothers and sesters whom I had longed to see so much have t I do not know yet whether my husband I departed from in northeast

China is alive or not have before I whimst was dropened of rebroad age of 14. I worked a haby-tenden at a landlord's for 3 years and then ! Since I became sterile owing to my life as the "comfort girl for the Japanese army", I got married again, keeping my past secret, to be taken as the second wife of another man. My second husband passed away 10 years ago. Since then I have been living alone.

The mere thought of the Japanese who deprived me of my youthful life and spoiled my family makes me grind my teeth with indignation.

do not know how to revenge myself upon them. My grudge will not be satisfied even though all the Japanese are exterminated. World all the Japanese are exterminated. there we were altogether 30 to 40 girls.

My resentment grows beyond reach when I think of my former husband who would be distressed, unable to know the life and death and the whereabouts of his wife, and of my parents who died with their eyes open as they left me alone behind. And had word for blues and of what

Why was I forced to lead such an unfortunate life?

Who gave them the right to take away a lot of Korean women, not the women of their country, and to make them their sex slaves?

I want to revenge myself upon the Japanese at any rate, even The "comfort house" was exculsively for the blrow sidt eyear I rafts would come there and buy tickets from the owner. And they would give

The Japanese Prime Minister himself must visit and apologize us the victims one by one, reflect on their wrong frankly and console us.

The Japanese must pledge themselves not to repeat their crimes again. They must know their shameful past and must not commit similar crimes again.

Every evening we were all ordered to gather in one place to submit-

Pak Pok Sil, 71 years old, Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese Army" any money at all. Solutions Unjon County Seat, the tickets we had taken the day. We were supplied with food and clothes were and I Morth Phyongan Province, DPRK of the beyond a Western Williams and the beyond a western with the best of the completely knocked out and felt disgustingly painful at every joint, it on

My father was a tenant at Kyogu-dong, Nam District, Pyongyang, and passed away when I was 15, was aw ladt balausika os ilai aw we

In order to support my family I started working from the early age of 14. I worked a baby-tender at a landlord's for 3 years and then at a rubber factory for another 3 years. Later, I happened to be employed as a waitress at Ryugyong Restaurant in Oesong District, taken as the second wife of another man. My second husbagnayqnoyq

I had to make my dress for guest by borrowing money from the owner of the restaurant. Owing to this debt I was sold off to China for 500 won when I was 19 years old. I salam ylims was believe bas all

Besides me there were several other girls who were sold for their debt. We took a train to Hulin, China, via Mudanjiang. When we arrived there we were altogether 30 to 40 girls.

Soon we were assigned to a "comfort house," each girl in one room. We were not allowed to speak to each other and had our meals separately. So we could not know what was going on with the others.

The building was as long as 9 to 10 meters and had a number of rooms on both sides of the corridor. Who gave them the right to take away a lot of Kerean women, not

The room was very small in size and could hardly accommodate two persons.

... I want to revenge myself upon the Japanese at any rate, reven

The "comfort house" was exculsively for the Japanese soldiers. They would come there and buy tickets from the owner. And they would give the ticket to the girl assigned to them in their rooms before they satisfied their carnal desire. Lead, another, wrong drank and another their carnal desire.

They were sometimes allowed to select a prettier or Japanesespeaking girl and in this case they paid more money. Jame year an age

Every evening we were all ordered to gather in one place to submit the tickets we had taken the day. We were supplied with food and clothes according to the number of tickets we had earned, but were not given any money at all. The any longer is decemed from WHIA III The sections.

We served 10 to 15 soldiers from morning till night. Then we were completely knocked out and felt disgustingly painful at every joint.

We felt so exhausted that we could not move even an inch.

If we tried to disobey or resist, we were severely beaten or killed. Once a week we were examined by a Japanese army doctor.

After the defeat of their country the Japanese soldiers fled leaving us behind. This was when I was 26.

I had no face to stay in my native town because of my shameful past. So I moved to Unjon County, North Phyongan Province.

a failor's shop, a hospital and a restaurant.

Two years later I got married but could not bear a child owing to the effects of my life as a "comfort girl." Three years after the marriage my reviourant at Hwangrum-dong, Schull a Japanese press bib bnadauh lured and by saying that I could carn a great deal of money if It Joined

Since then I have been alone, farming. We opposit a sequence and a sequence as a sequence of the sequence of t

Still the aftermath makes me suffer from severe headache and indi-Imposed upon by his money words. I went to China with his money girls. One of them Rt Pok Hut from Kyongju and the second girl was

The mere thought of my past life makes my blood run cold. Even the word "a Japanese" makes my hair almost bristle up. The train carrying four of us left Scoul for Hellongilang through Japan has been craftily concealing all the dirty records of her past and is still pretending not to know it. I can hardly bear it. I may not die peacefully as long as all my grievances are not paid off. The place we arrived at was Lachelshan, Hellongjiang Province.

That is why I am determined to make public my past.

I strongly demand that the Japanese government put all criminals to trial, make a sincere apology and a proper compensation for all the Korean women who are victims.

Choe Sun Hwan, 71 years old, former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese Army" need bad dolld Miphyong-ri, Thongchon County, its at wing the

Kangwon Province, DPRKhasod notboow yet benefiting

I was born at Ronam-dong, Seoul, on September 5, 1921 and grew up there. so piece of straw mat spread on the Hoor.

My family lived in a rented room of another person's house. As we lived poorly, we were pressed hard for the rent. So we had to move from one place to another often.

mother in September. The service of the service of to support me. I just got by, so I worked out a living, doing odd jobs at a tailor's shop, a hospital and a restaurant.

One day in June 1942, when I was working as a waitress at a restaurant at Hwanggum-dong, Seoul, a Japanese pressman, Kaseito, lured me by saying that I could earn a great deal of money if I joined a children's opera troupe which was said to be newly organized in East Manchuria, China.

Imposed upon by his honey words, I went to China with three other girls. One of them Ri Pok Hui from Kyongju and the second girl was Kim Sun Ae from Seoul. I do not remember the third girl.

The train carrying four of us left Seoul for Heilongjiang through Pyongyang, Sinuiju and Dandong, China. All the way from Dandong station we were not allowed to walk out to the platform.

The place we arrived at was Laoheishan, Heilongjiang Province.

There were already some Korean girls.

"Laoheishan Comfort House" on its front and only the Japanese soldiers were allowed in.

And it was co-managed by a Japanese and a Korean who were dressed in plain-clothes.

Each girl was allotted to the different 15 rooms / which had been partitioned by wooden boards. 990 ponivoid nowans //

The room measured 2×3 meters and the only thing in the room was a piece of straw-mat spread on the floor.

After our arrival there we were forbidden to speak Korean and given Japanese names.

My Japanese name was "Ichiko." I HIOZ gnoviool to book but boin The number of soldiers I had to serve a day was 15 to 18 on aveage; soldiers from 9 to 12 a.m. and from 13 to 19 p.m., and officers from 20 p.m. to dawn the next morning.

In case a girl refused to serve, the Japanese soldiers forced her to accede to their demand, unconditionally, snarling: "I have paid for you. You are mine." If she did not obey still, they would fly all at once at head, strip her naked and kick and slash her only to find an outlet of their fury.

A girl named Yoshiko was also thrashed until she fell into coma because she did not obey. That girl dragged her numb body to the toilet but could not come back from there forever. Her dead body was said to have been thrown to an unknown place. This was not the only story. Similar things happened repeatedly.

The meal we were given consisted of about 100 grams of cooked millet and an inedible subsidiary food made of watermelon peel. We got medical examination once a week and if an infected girl found she was brought to somewhere else. So within one year alone several girls disappeared and were replaced by some others.

I had been coerced to lead such a shameful life for 3 years. One evening the master ordered us. "Come out with your little belongings as you have to move to another place."

When we got to the high road after 5 hours' walk, we found it unusually crowded and busy with automobiles, carts and people going. Only then I realized that the Japanese imperialists were defeated.

Taking advantage of crowdedness I succeeded in escaping from there, not not be a supplied to the supplied to t

Afterwards, I was introduced to a certain private inn by the help of a kind Korean refugee who had offered me bed and food for more than 10 days and worked there for two years until I met my spouse in 1947.

We lived in Dongning, Heilongjiang Province, China for 3 years but, we had no child. Later in 1950 I returned home with my husband and lived at Hoeryong, North Hamgyong Province.

After my husband's death in 1951 during the war I got married again in 1955 to a man who had 4 children and lived farming in Thongchon County, Kangwon Province.

and the four children have already been married away.

Although I married twice I was unable to bear a child from the aftereffects of the "comfort woman's" life. From the age of 33 I suffered uterine hemorrhage continuously, often resulting in collapse.

because she did not obey. They work of some of the solution of

I have kept silent about this story for I have taken it a disgrace of me to have had such a life, deceived by a cunning and cruel Japanese.

But Japan is shameless enough to deny her crime until now. I could no longer remain a silent onlooker. So I brought my charge on April 29, 1993. Depointing the base was a silent onlooker. So I brought my charge on April 29, 1993. Depointing the base was a silent onlooker.

I often start up in bed out of resentment against the Japanese who had cruelly killed or disabled hundreds of thousands of Korean women like me. 1997 E. 101 all hulamada a daya basi of basing passed basis.

Just to think of those sickening days, I am impelled to think that our pain-rent hearts would never be cured even with the extermination of the Japanese to the last man. The beat dailed to the last man.

evening the master ordered us. "Come out with your little belongings

We may be well justified to demand 50 years' servant-life for our people by the sons and daughters of the Japanese.

unusually crowded and busy with automobiles, carts and people going,

Japan must make sincere apology and due compensation for her past crimes.

Hwang-Son Ok, 69 years old, Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese ni seuoge ym 16 Army", u 21804 owl 101 Strict, Nampho City, DPRK 101

When I was ten years old, my father died and I lived with my mother. My elder brother was in Xinjing (Changchun) Manchuria, China, to make money.

One day my mother and I received a letter from him hoping for our arrival in that city. So we went there.

My elder brother was working at a shop run by a Japanese (named Fujimi) and I managed to have a job as a nursemaid in the house of that Japanese.

In the autumn when I was 17 years old, Japanese soldiers rushed in and forced me and 7 other girls to board a lorry and drove it somewhere for more than 2 hours.

To our surprise, we reached barracks of the Japanese army. There was a "comfort house" which I saw for the first time in my life.

After 2 months' medical treatment I recovered to some extent. In

The "comfort house" was a two storied-building fenced with barbed wire, which was a little away from the barracks.

A soldier was always on sentry. For the first two or three days I did not accede to the demand of Japanese soldiers, who threatened me with their guns, kicking me on the waist, the back and the legs at random.

They struck my palms with leather belts so hard that the skin of my palms got stripped off. Since then I was so frightened that I obeyed them. Japanese soldiers pounced upon me in succession day and night to satisfy their carnal desire without allowing me to have a rest.

We were supplied with two meals a day—boiled rice mixed with hulled barley and seaweed soup. They brought meals to our rooms.

We were allowed to be out only when we went to the lavatory. At that time, too, we were followed by the guard.

I can still remember the names of two "comfort girls," who were with me at that time: Yong Ja (from Kyongsang Province) and "Akiko" (from South Phyongan Province).

In the spring the following year, I was emaciated extremely/ and was ill in bed at all times. I was so seriously ill that I lost my consciousness for several days.

One day Japanese soldiers came to me with an army doctor, who examined me. Then they put me on a stretcher and went to a valley to throw me away there.

When I came to myself, I crawled and crawled with all my strength before I reached a house near the valley. I knocked at the door and there appeared a man who said in Chinese which was strange to me at first.

After that, I told him the name and address of my elder brother and asked him to write to my brother. Three months later my elder brother came to take me. That is how I could get rid of the "comfort house".

After 2 months' medical treatment I recovered to some extent. In winter that year, I came to know a man named Kim Song Pom (20 years old) and married him. But soon after our marriage my husband was called up for military service. Three days after the country's liberation he returned home.

After a long treatment I managed to bear a son who was unfortunately killed in Sinuiju by an indiscriminate US bombing on the 8th of November, 1950. My husband was also killed in the war.

Later, I married again but, unfortunately could not bear a child. So, I adopted a 7-year-old daughter of my husband's elder brother as my daughter and lived with her. I am now supported by her.

The mere thought of what happened at the "comfort house" makes my heart full of sorrow and resentment. Awake or asleep, I only think of how I can revenge myself upon the enemy.

were supplied with thyo meals at day boiled riced mixed (with Ri Son Rim, 75 years old, Former "Comfort Girl for the Japanese Army", brown of a Clair Phangyo County, Kangwon Province, DPRK as a "oxida" bus (controlled and controlled and controlled and the controlle

I was born in Poksu-ri, Phyongsan-County, North Hwanghae Pro-

Meals were brought to our rooms; they consisted of 100 grams of boiled Annam rice or cooked millet and salted radish slices.

My family was so poor that at the age of 9 I became a girl whom a man brings up in his home as a future wife for his son.

After 7 years of life in that house, I came to work in the Phyongsan Silk Mill at the age of 16.

for us to run away.

When I was 19 years old, I was sold to a restaurant in Dandong, China to become an errand-girl. On a sold to a restaurant in Dandong, years old, I was sold to a restaurant in Dandong,

One day, a Japanese (named "Miyamoto") came to the restaurant and said to me: "If you go to Harbin, you will make much money." So I followed him to Harbin.

At that time I went there together with 5 other Korean girls. When we got on a train to Harbin, Japanese soldiers watched us closely.

At Harbin Station we were taken on a lorry which ran all day long.

In the evening we arrived at a valley where barracks of Japanese army were situated. On the standard army were situated. On the standard army were situated about mountains we wandered about mountains.

The place was said to be the vicinity of Mt. Anling, Xiaoxing. In the "comfort house" where I stayed there were 12 girls and not far off there were 3 or 4 "comfort houses."

At first, I made a fuss, entreating them to let back home, but Japanese soldiers threatened to cut my neck with their swords. One day I was so seriously ill that I refused to serve them. Then a Japanese soldier stabbed by thigh, threatening with his sword. Still now there remains the scar.

We were not allowed to be out, except the time for our taking a bath.

Toilet was made at a corner of each room and it gave off a very unpleasant smell.

I had to serve 15 to 20 men a day: non-commissioned officers in the daytime and officers at night.

Meals were brought to our rooms; they consisted of 100 grams of boiled Annam rice or cooked millet and salted radish slices.

Each of us Korean girls was alloted to a room. They did not let us talk each other and say in Korean.

A guard was always keeping watch on us and it was impossible for us to run away.

They gave us a rest only once a month. Due to a month of the second of t

Whenever we appealed to the manager for our poor health, he did not take any measure to cure us, syaing: "Withstand the pain, and you will be all right."

In March 1944, I and 3 other girls ran away from the "comfort house" when the guard was dozing off.

We ran nearly for 40 minutes when there came the cries of the Japanese soldiers.

At that time one of us parted from us, and now I do not know what has became of her. For 20 days we wandered about in mountains, searching for food. And we managed to take train to Dandong.

In 1946, I got married to a man but I could not bear a child. So I adopted a girl as my daughter, with whom I am living now.

My wish is to let the people over the world know and bear in mind the crimes committed by the Japanese armymen, for thousands of, nay, tens of thousands of years.

We were not allowed to be out except the time for our taking va

Toilet was made at a corner of each room and it gaye off sanovery

I had to serve 15 to 20 men a day; non-conneissioned officers in the daytime and officers at night.